SAN JUAN SILVER MINES.

The latest accounts from San Juan are very encouraging. Messrs Klappack, the former not knowing the language or modes of operation and finding themselves perfectly useless in a strange country. Their letter of introduction to Major Rickard, as we anticipated, could not procure them a cordial welcome, but a livelihood, and we hope in future our countrymen on such occasions will be guided by our advice.

Respecting Mr. Rickard's new project we have to make a few observations. It is usual for a man who has rapidly advanced himself to an important position by his personal talents, to meet with curious critics; and there are some who grumble about his recent step, while many censure him as bombastic and overbearing. We do not profess to become his champion, but we have a great regard for the San Juan mines.

No one can deny that (as Mr. Wheelwright says) he is possessed of rare talents in his profession, and that the Mines of San Juan and the present enterprise are extraordinarily indebted to his indefatigable efforts. It remains with the shareholders to judge his proceedings, but surely his susceptibility to human vanity is small cause for complaint. Some of the particulars above stated we have learned from him, some from other reliable sources, and we have deemed fit to enter at full into a subject fraught with such importance to many of our readers and to the Argentine Republic.

Jedion can be offered to go just an alternative. New discoveries of rich ores are made daily, and all the stories of the mining riches of San Juan will soon be shown to fall far short of the brilliant reality.

The country is at present very quiet, and Gov. Sarmiento's departure does not seem to have caused any motive for disorder. The new Governor and ex-shareholders entertain the best wishes for Mr. Rickard, who is chief magistrate of the district, and having a strong guard of his regiment at the country, keeps the neighborhood in happy security. Since the conspiracy to murder him and sack the works, luckily discovered in time, there has been no sympathy of disorder, although in truth his breach-loaders have served to instill a salutary terror.

The Messrs Dillon were most kindly received by Major Rickard who procured them quarters with the officers and invited them to dine with his Excellency the Governor, besides many other attentions. They were not however so lucky as the Messrs. Klappack, the former not knowing the language or modes of operation and finding themselves perfectly useless in a strange country. Their letter of introduction to Major Rickard, as we anticipated, could not procure them a cordial welcome, but a livelihood, and we hope in future our countrymen on such occasions will be guided by our advice.

GREAT NEWS FOR THE CAMP.

Gov. Saavedra and Mr. Patrick.

Our friends, fellow-countrymen and lovers will learn with undisguised pleasure that his Excellency, Don Mariano Saavedra, the Governor of this Province, is at last beginning to prove himself a half an Irishman, or in other words a child of the old block.

The railway being now extended to the Villa Luxa, the governor considered it a necessary convenience that a station should be opened half way between Moreno and Luxa. After a lengthy correspondence with the engineers of the road, the government has at last succeeded in extracting from this Teutonic official a proper locality for such a station. The new station will be almost midway between Moreno and Luxa, and will be distant 54,600 metres from the Puyoso station, and will be almost in front of the town of Pilar which will be about 14 kilometers distant.

The locality of the new station has, we believe, been well selected, on a slight eminence and surrounded by the most fertile soil.

The name of the new town which is to be built at this station smacks little of Republicanism, and we regret that it is not a more appropriate one. It is to be called a historian as Mr. Dominguez could select no better appellation for the embryo town than that of some Argentine general whose fame and reputation is contemptibly low.

"General Rodriguez" is to be the appellation of the new town. Our readers of course will hardly credit that such should be the exorbitant taste of the governor, but nevertheless it is the fact, and as we are led to believe that Argentines now take the lead of all creation we have no doubt that the new town which will be created in Ireland will be yelet "Corporal Casey."

Still we cannot withhold praise for the liberality of the government in endowing the place with two schools and a church, particularly so when his Excellency the Governor, in compliment to Irishmen, who have done so much for the country, has thought proper to command that the new church should be called St. Patrick's.

It is perfectly immaterial to us whether the new station is a Cuzco or Coidio, he has paid a compliment to our fellow countrymen and we appreciate it. Yesterday we published a letter which notified that he was the principal instrument in effecting peace amongst the factions—to day we certify to his anxiety to advance the country in building new towns and erecting temples of worship to the Almighty. We take sides, therefore, with the Governor, and demand for him a fair and impartial judgment.

We have no doubt if he had ministers who instead of intruding their opinions, would faithfully execute his orders, many of the necessary reforms in the camp, which we daily allude to, would be brought about.

The new town we understand will be built partly upon the lands of Doña Manuela Matos and partly on small pieces of government land.

It must be borne in mind that a church in such a local place as the new station, will be of the greatest convenience to the neighbors. The schools also, if properly managed, will be of great service. No matter what people may say of the Governor, we insist that he is doing his best, and deserves every support, particularly from Irishmen resident in the camp.

There are many useful reforms necessary in the camp, and we firmly believe that if some of our subscribers would call his Excellency's attention to the matter, he would at once introduce measures of reform.

We protest, however, against christening the new town General Rodriguez, and hope that some other name will be selected. Suppose we call it the same as the church—St. Patrick.

EDITORIAL TABLE.

Nothing particularly new occurred in town yesterday—the gentlemen are all preparing for the holidays, the ladies for the ball, which we hear will be on the most magnificent style. The paternal families complain of the monstrous expense, but the shop-keepers say that there are fewer bills given in Buenos Ayres than in any other city of the world.

M. Lucio Manuelli's drama, "Atar Gull," came off last night, and we believe was very well received. We salute the Argentine Shakespeare, but would beg to remind him that he has omitted to send us either a copy of the drama or a box in the theatre. We are therefore obliged to form our judgment of the drama on hearsay evidence.

We perceive in the Reflector Pacifico that an unknown barque 104 days out from England had arrived in Montevideo, and passed on to Buenos Ayres.

The Mersey will leave on Friday for Montevideo; passengers are notified to be on board before four o'clock p.m. on that day.

Mr. Balcarac has by latest advices arrived in London, and presented his credentials as Argentine Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of St. James. Our colleague the "Nation Argentine" in speaking of the new telegraphic wires arrived for Paraguay, asks what use are such things in Paraguay. We advise the talented editor of this popular journal to make a trip this winter to Paraguay, when he will form a more correct opinion of that go-ahead country, about which he seems to be most profoundly ignorant. We could wish sincerely to see as many tramways intersect Buenos Ayres as we witnessed in Asuncion.

Highway robberies are now becoming as frequent in this city as garroting was in London last year. We read in the "Nation" that a distinguished broker was stopped in the streets in broad daylight, and a bag containing fifteen ounces, wrested from him. Thanks, however, to the energetic appeals of the vicineux broker, the whole neighborhood started in pursuit of the thief, and Commissary O'Gorman pinned the fellow at the corner of Calle Saavedra, and made him return the lost specie. The highwayman, on being questioned, stated that he regarded the ounce brokers as the bone and sinew of the country, and considered it his duty to attack each and every one of them when occasion offered.

A rather laughable incident occurred the other night in Calle Florida, to one of our English clerks, who was returning home humming.

"Oh in the stilly night,"

When a fellow came up on him, and insinuated the propriety of his immediately shutting up, or if he wanted to sing, to shout out "down with the Coidio." Our friend, who was of the right stamp, agreed, but told the fellow he could only sing in English, and thereupon struck up an impromptu to the tune of "Jolly Baw," curving and j—ing the Grass and Coidies in the most extravagant style. His companion was so charmed at the exquisite melody, that he invited the musical clerk to take a bottle of champagne with him at the cafe, where they regaled themselves, and parted the very best friends.

We no longer learn that the shipmen of jerked beef to England, which we noticed some time ago, have proved good speculations. It appears that the beef preserved in Salmuera has not met with similar success.

There is the greatest anxiety at present, amongst all parties, to invest in provincial lands. This is a beginning of what Mr. Wheelwright's enterprise will ultimately effect. Our office is crowded with applicants, but as we have not a land agency office, we refer them to the land brokers.

We are happy to advise our readers, that one of the lost pilots, Mr. McDermott, has at last turned up. It appears that Mr. McDermott was, instead of floating about the river, shooting quails at Maldonado.

A farmer from Siles informs us, that in that district the camps have been suffering from want of rain. The last rain, however, visited the dried up camps of Salto, and the grass is coming up well. The farmers are again in good spirits.

At the meeting of the Club del Pueblo on Wednesday night there were over 2,000 people present. General Emilio Mitre, Dr. Gutierrez, and others, spoke in favor of the arrangement with the Club Libertad. Dr. Chassagny, however, opposed it vehemently, and unfortunately he seemed to possess the majority. Both clubs will support it.

The meeting was suspended with almost an equal division, without coming to any resolution.

In spite of Dr. Chassagny we are very well pleased to be able to state that the peaceful arrangement will be effected and that we shall have no disgraceful rioting, "malgre" the speeches, for the two governments and the great majority of the people.

We hear, by the "Keppler," that the experiments made in England with the traction engines, for Buenos Ayres, have given very satisfactory results, and that they may be expected by the first Liverpool steamer. Several photographs have been sent out by the contractors. We suppose we shall receive one in a day or two.

Several commutations are projected for the May holidays, which it is thought will last from Sunday 22nd to Thursday 26th, both inclusive. This is not, however, likely. The 23rd May used to be a holiday, but only have effect outside the city. Thursday will be a holiday, the feast of Corpus Christi having been postponed to the 24th of May.

The news of Flores is uninteresting, except that the rebels occupied Tacuarembó, and took to the sierras. We regret to find the leader of the plot to oust the Government, Artigas (né Pulaski), was an Englishman, one Robert Robinson; he was released on bail, but has been again arrested.

The "Pueblo" states that the Coidio Club has rejected, by 1600 votes to 100, the proposed arrangement between the factions. Nevertheless, we fear the only alarming result will be an increase of popularity for Dr. Chassagny, which will ultimately lead the rash young man to unpleasant consequences.

THE PIANOFORTE RECITAL.

Mrs. Curtis gave her musical soiree on Tuesday evening, at M. Guion's, before a select company, with the most signal success. English music is always a treat 7000 miles from home, but especially when ably rendered, as in the present case, by a gifted countrywoman.

The execution of Beethoven's Sonata was so brilliant as to merit the warm approval of several German pianists who were present, but we confess our preference for vocal pieces, and the trio "Thel infelice cuora" was beautifully sung, Messrs. Curtis and Marshall aiding the fair artiste, who moreover played the accompaniment with great taste. "Bella siccome un angelo," by Mrs. Curtis, was much applauded, as were also the "Adeuho," so general favorite, and a Fantasia on the Piano-forte.

Mrs. Curtis departed from her programme to give the charming English lullaby "If he be desert," and we have no doubt if Miss Reeves were present he would be jealous of the very happy rendering of the song. The "Serenade" was no doubt a complimentary to the company, who were all subscribers to this paper, but he is as may the song exactly suits Mr. Curtis's voice, being given with all the clear and vigorous characteristic of his title.

Buenos Aires was no doubt a complimentary to the company, who were all subscribers to this paper, but he is as may the song exactly suits Mr. Curtis's voice, being given with all the clear and vigorous characteristic of his title.

unites great taste with a highly melodious voice. Her talents shone more conspicuously, as the instrument was one of Erard's best pianos, and we warmly congratulate our countrywoman on her happy introduction to our Anglo-Argentine public.

ENGLISH HEROISM.

A POOR NATIVE SAVED.

We had occasion to call our readers' attention to the heroic conduct of an English clerk in Belgrano some few weeks ago. It is now our pleasing duty to publish the particulars of even a more meritorious affair, perpetrated by a Londoner recently arrived.

On last Sunday night, the English gentleman in question was coming up Calle Defensa, when almost in front of Lazma's quinta he heard a scuffle, and cries from some unfortunate human being, who was apparently struggling with an assassin.

Our countryman, true to his nationality, instead of proceeding in his way, hurried to the assistance of the distressed man. What was his horror to find a villain dressed in poncho and chiripa, with knife in hand, ready to murder an unfortunate man, who was prostrate on the ground. The heroic Englishman instantly grasped the murderous gaucha by the hair of the head, pulled him off the fallen man, but unfortunately in the scuffle the villainous gaucha succeeded in stabbing the Englishman in the calf of the leg. Notwithstanding his wound, and thirsting for revenge, Mr. T. succeeded in liberating himself from the clutches of the gaucha, and pitching into him in a style, only to be imagined by professional prizefighters, until the fellow's eyes got scientifically closed up: he kicked him until he damaged his own boots irrevocably, and then, with the assistance of the rescued native, tied the villain's arms, pulled off one of his boots, poked it down the fellow's throat, and then threw him into a ditch. We regret to say that the Englishman suffered, however, rather severely from his wound.

Our heroic countryman is son-in-law of a well known gunsmith, and merits the thanks and esteem of all his fellow-citizens for his unpredicated heroism and intrepidity.

Several commutations are projected for the May holidays, which it is thought will last from Sunday 22nd to Thursday 26th, both inclusive. This is not, however, likely. The 23rd May used to be a holiday, but only have effect outside the city. Thursday will be a holiday, the feast of Corpus Christi having been postponed to the 24th of May.

The news of Flores is uninteresting, except that the rebels occupied Tacuarembó, and took to the sierras. We regret to find the leader of the plot to oust the Government, Artigas (né Pulaski), was an Englishman, one Robert Robinson; he was released on bail, but has been again arrested.

THE GREAT SHEEP-STEALING CASE.

There has been a prosecution for sheep-stealing going on for some time back in our courts against two men named Agustín Gomez and José Berge, Gomez was a rather well-to-do native who lived in Magdalena, and Berge was a sort of medianero of his.

It appears that some time last year a number of sheep were missing out of the neighbors' flocks, and people could not find out what had become of them. An Irishman, however, who was passing by, one day, where Gomez's flock was, remarked a number of sheep in the flock with blood on the ears, and apparently recently scalded—he of course spoke of the matter, although he himself had lost no sheep. The thing got to be talked of, and ultimately Gomez's medianero admitted to some of the native neighbors that there were several hundred sheep in his flock "counter scalded," and that these sheep belonged to the neighbors.

Gomez when he heard that the justice of the peace was coming with the soldiers immediately scalded, and has not since returned.

The flock was embargoed, the media were sent into town to prison, and a criminal suit commenced, which was decided only last Monday.

Judge Langhinheim, the criminal judge here in town, tried the case, and after hearing all the evidence, acquitted Berge of all complicity in the robbery, sentenced Gomez (when caught) to four years imprisonment with hard labour, and ordered the justice of the peace in Magdalena to take the charge of the flock, return the stolen sheep to the owners, if found, and all the rest to be sold at public auction, to defray the expenses of minding them during the trial, and the balance to be handed over to the municipality.

We have no doubt that this will prove a salutary lesson to such thieving natives as live by robbing their neighbors. The counter senaling system has been carried on a little too long, and Judge Langhinheim deserves our warmest thanks for at last trying to stop it.

MR. WELLS'S BALLOONS.

The public is not aware of the great preparations being made by the American astronomer for his ascent during the May festivals. We visited yesterday his workshops, in which the great balloons Washington and Buenos Ayres are being constructed. The first was some time ago exhibited in the Parque and is now varnished and re-modelled, being almost completed and ready for use; in the topmost story of Colon theatre, there are three men at work the balloon covering the whole room and the wicker-work being capable of holding two persons. The net is composed of very strong cord, the material Irish linen, and the dimensions of the Washington 60 feet high, by 45 in diameter, with a superfluous of 35,000 cubic feet, and made of 64 pieces strongly sewed together. This balloon will be inflated on the Gondollier principle, with rarefied air, for which purpose Mr. Wells will construct a small furnace and chimney in the Plaza Victoria, whence he will make his ascent. It will be remembered that a Frenchman, some years ago, attempted the same, but failed owing to the want of experience, and broke his leg, after going up 100 yards. Mr. Wells says his balloon was too small, and that accidents are often apt to occur in such experiments.

To guard against any fortuitous mishap, Mr. Wells is making the "Buenos Ayres" after another method. This gigantic aerial vehicle is composed of 100,000 cubic feet, containing 1300 yards Irish linen, and will be inflated with rarefied air. It is being sewed by Don Jose B. de Varela, of the Plaza Mayor, who with his family keeps three powerful sewing machines at work day and night. The stitching is a model of neatness and strength, and in a few days the balloon will be finished.

Mr. Wells in his first ascent will have a young man for his companion, but we believe the young lady will be refused to go during the May festivals. He is putting up the Recoba arch for his tasking, although he prefers the Cabildo tower, but the Municipality would probably dread his taking up the clock in mid-air.

THE INDIANS.

We copy the following from the "Nation Argentina":

CAMPAMENTO, Tres Arroyos, 17th April 1864.

To the Jefe de Paz of the Partido of Indol:

The undersigned begs to advise you that on the night of the 13th inst. he learned that the Indians were within seven leagues of this campamento, and he at once made preparations for marching. He started at daybreak and at about a league from the camp he found the Indians assembled, having in their possession some 18,000 to 20,000 head of cattle. He advanced towards them at the double-quick, with the intention of surprising the outputs and preventing any further carrying off, which he succeeded in doing.

This was the extent of his day's work. The Indians amounted to some 600—they lost two killed and several wounded, whom they carried off. The troops lost three wounded and one man taken prisoner, who has not since been heard of. This forced march has somewhat spoiled the horses of the police, and many of them on the road on account of their being tired, and he requests that you will send him, with all speed, some government horses, or horses of some natives not known in this partido. Want of time must account for the shortness of this despatch.

BENITO MACIATO.

GREAT RACE AT SAN VICENTE.

On last Sunday one of the most exciting races ever known to have occurred in this quiet little village took place between a horse owned by a foreign merchant, who although not an Irishman lives in front of one of the largest Irish stores in this city, in Calle Piedra, and an Argentine horse, name unknown. As a matter of course the English merchant's horse won easily, and our friend pocketed all the spare San Vicente paper dollars available. The race was hardly deserving of the name, as the native horse hung behind in the most despicable manner. It will be a long time before the San Vicentinos will again challenge any horse belonging to an English merchant.

Great Rejoicing in Rosario.

News from the Central Railway. The Faron was bearer of the glorious news from Mr. Wheelwright, and Capt. Bruce arrived at Rosario on Monday morning, his vessel hung with flags, and the band of the 7th battalion playing joyful tunes. At once the citizens flocked down to the beach and gave themselves up to the most extravagant rejoicing. Capt. Espinosa with the band headed the procession, in which our friend Mr. Bruce was the hero, and a round of visits was paid to the Gefatura, Municipality, "Ferre-carril" office, and other places. The day ordered the day to be kept as a holiday, in celebration of the splendid announcement, and Rosario was a scene of universal rejoicing. The townfolk even begged that Captain Espinosa should be promoted, and we have no doubt that if Capt. Bruce were in the service, he would at once make him an Admiral, on the day of action.

The Bank of Mau & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working class in that city, a safe & profitable depository for their savings.
The sums deposited in that most important institution are diligently increasing and already reach a very large amount.
These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of Clerks, Artisans, working-men & servants of all classes & conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries and other frivolities.
