TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1861.

SYMPATHY WITH PERU.

Great demonstration at Colon.

The doors of our great theatre were thrown open on Sunday at noon, and the edifice was soon filled in every part by over 3000 respectable citizens assembled to protest against the Spanish aggression in the Chincha Islands. Although less numerous the meeting was far more imposing than last week's display at the Retiro, the arrangements also being more complete. Hundreds of persons were unable to procure admittance, but through the kindness of Capt Mansilla we obtained a place in one of the boxes.

The chair was taken by General Zapala, around whom on either side were grouped some 20 veterans of the Independence, the back part of the stage being occupied by a military band and a number of gentlemen. By way of preface to the proceedings Capt Lacasa (Italian) reminded the meeting of its purpose and alluded in flattering terms to the services of the heroic campaigners who presided on the occasion.

He said—The sacred cause of Liberty has called forth many heroes but none more worthy than, a Guido whose genius directed the War office in the crusade of 1816, a Martinez whose sword flashed in triumph on the fields of Chacabuco, Junin and Ayacucho, and an Olazabal whose entire family perished in the effort to redeem this continent. The cause for which they fought is the same as that which brings us here to-day, and I thought a poor soldier of fortune will gladly offer my humble aid in so glorious a combat between foreign tyranny and the institutions of American democracy (applause).

Don Pastor Obligado junr. then came forward, as secretary to the committee, and read several resolutions; he recommended same to the meeting in a fiery discourse on popular sovereignty, American freedom, European tyrants, and other topics of Retiro style which elicited rapturous cheering, but were rather common-place than proper to the question, and more tedious than interesting.

General Tomas Guido, being loudly called for, addressed the assembly; his speech was decidedly the ablest and most sensible of the day. He said:

Fellow citizens. It is a cheering idea for my comrades of the Independence to think that their toils have not been in vain, and to find the rising generation as jealous in guarding the liberties of the continent as their fathers have been. We are the remnants of an age now almost extinct, but when the hour of danger comes we will take our places in the ranks, and if we fall gloriously we shall be avenged by the gallant youths who stand by our side. Only a few days ago you assembled at the foot of the statue of our great hero, San Martin, who headed the revolution across the Andes and helped to secure the independence of Chile the generous city of B.

LEA & Co of S. American Lignum vitae so selfish as to be conspiring to expell the foreign domination as the Spanish arms held by part of the Continent. CONNOISELY was this enterprise, that the to be of Chile expressed his amazement when I was sent with despatches to him he said to me, "What madness has seized your General, to come and deliver himself into our hands? But the patriot arms were irresistible, and we ultimately had the happiness to see Liberty triumphant from Panama to Patagonia. The heroes of Belen succumbed to the valiant followers of Bolivar, and Spain learned at Ayacucho the vigor and strength of young America. The monarchies of Europe looked with displeasure on the growth of democracy and a secret conspiracy was organized to crush the rising power. Thirty years have now elapsed since I wrote from Europe to apprise these Governments of the danger. At the conference of Vienna the representatives of the great powers formed the scheme of converting all Hispano-American republics into monarchies. I am happy to testify that England held aloof from the coalition; England is the freest country in Europe and her generous people refused to join in any plans aimed at the independence and self government of these countries. I will not now advert to the epoch of civil war and bloodshed which ensued, converting this continent into a battle field of fratricidal war. At last, thank Heaven a period has been put to such disgrace, and henceforward Argentines will know no colors but the blue and white which form our National banner (tremendous cheering). The speaker here received an Argentine flag which he held aloft, and continued: "Within its ample folds there is room for all our countrymen, and we will rally around this splendid 'insignia' as an emblem of peace and fraternity. If the question of the day arouse varying opinions, let us discuss them in the arena of a free press, but never again shall our arms be raised to slay our brothers in insane contentions. Pleading is it to see this grand demonstration, of a free people, but sacred is the duty which calls us to buckle on our swords when our homes and altars are threatened with the invasion of a foreign host.

The gallant orator was saluted with continued rounds of applause and obliged to come forward and bow his acknowledgments to the meeting. The band played the Peruvian Hymn.

Sor Fajardo, author of La Indigena, stood up in one of the boxes, and said: "They call me a poet, but in the present emergency I would also show myself a soldier. Not only my pen but my sword will be at the service of Peru, and I have confidence in the present movement when I see men of such talent and such services leading it on (cheers)."

Capt Lacasa essayed to offer a few words but was received with shouts and confusion, the audience not wishing to hear him a second time. At length he was enabled to speak:

I wish to add but two words, and these in rectification of Gen. Guido's: I am a political opponent of that gentleman, but I cannot allow his civic modesty to conceal an historical fact. It was General Guido who planned the crossing of the Cordillera, and his proposals, on receiving the sanction of the War office here, was sent to Gen. San Martin and successfully carried out by him. But for the wise inspiration of Guido, it is hard to say whether Chile and Peru should have gained their Independence (Viva Guido and loud cheers).

General Guido briefly repeated, "that while he thanked the last speaker, and the public for their kind appreciations, he was ashamed that his name should in any way figure before that of their great hero, San Martin, to whom was really due all the glory of the triumph."

Sor Raggio (Italian) said: The present aggression of Spain is not only against Peru, but against this whole continent, and even against all friends of liberty throughout the Globe. I belong to a nation which has undergone great trials, and all Italians will stand up in defence of an oppressed nation in either the New or Old world. If a subscription be got up in this city, my purse will be freely opened, and if an Italian volunteer corps be formed I will enter the ranks, and do battle for these republics, against the corrupt ministry of a piratical Government. Let us however bear in mind that our war is not against any European people, for most nations of Europe wish us well, but the despotic ministry of Queen Isabella has menaced the home of republican liberty (cheers).

Sor Guido (son to the General) said: Countrymen, let us take courage, when our councils are guided by those renowned veterans (pointing to the stage) whose hoary locks are as it were a crown for well-spent lives, and remind us of the snowy heights of the Andes which they crossed when marching to liberate our brethren of the Pacific. As two icy clots of Tupungato cannot quench the volcanic fires beneath, so the chill of age cannot stifle the patriotism of those who may be truly called the fathers of their country. Arouse, then, and arm in the good cause and let us shew the world that the sons of those who vanquished the lion of Castille at Maypu and Ayacucho are worthy of such heroic progenitors (enthusiastic cheering).

Dr. Argerich said: Two great heroes can we boast—Columbus who won a new world from the bed of the ocean, and Bolivar who freed us from colonial bondage. For half a century we have enjoyed the inestimable blessing of self Government, and now the piratical agent of a decayed throne seeks to enslave anew the ancient Empire of the Sun, but Peruvians are all heroes, and the hour has arrived for us to aid them and to fling the gauntlet in the teeth of the united tyrants of Europe (loud cheers).

This speech was followed by great confusion, hisses, and uproar, and it would seem some individuals were disgusted at the turn the debate was taking. Some one cried out "turn out the foreigners," but this was received with a perfect storm of hisses, and it was necessary for the band to play the Argentine Hymn ere order could be restored.

Mr. Bilbao said: It is my painful duty to remind you of the urgency of the present danger. When Mexico was invaded, the sister-republics looked on heedlessly until that heroic and virtuous nation fell beneath her executioners. Even at present the island of Haiti combats valiantly against overpowering odds, for even its title of St. Domingo has not availed to save it from martyrdom at the hands of the Inquisition of Ferdinand VII. The Haytian maidens may weave funeral wreaths for their murdered negro fathers, but alas! there is no hope of aid from the South American republics, and the struggle is useless. Mexico has fallen, St. Domingo is already beneath the fangs of the Spanish lion, and Peru is about to share the same fate. Yet you look on idly! I ask you will you suffer these republics to be defeated in detail (shouts of "Never"). It is foolish to rely on the goodness of our cause, as we shall learn to our cost if we allow foreign domination to defeat our neighbors. Let us take active measures, and as we have had enough of declamation, I will propose to the meeting a few resolutions which I have drawn up, as seemingly appropriate:

1st. To organise a rifle volunteer brigade.

2nd. To form an association for target practice.

3rd. To make a large Album petitioning Congress to make a law considering the case of Peru as ours.

4th. To urge on the National Executive the necessity for equipping regiments and sending artillery to aid Peru.

5th. To deposit quantities of arms at the four printing offices (Tribuna, Nacional, and Pueblo) for gratuitous distribution to all who will go fight the Spaniards (cheers).

Let these resolutions form the programme of the meeting, and be voted. I am tired of hearing so much talk and seeing it resolve itself to nothing; I want to give for our motto, "Deeds, deeds, deeds."

This speech drew forth tremendous cheering, after which the confusion again began, and the assembly being excited to fever heat, contending calls for Alsina, Ramilo Mitre, Chassaign and others, prevented for a time all the proceedings.

Capt. Mansilla next spoke. The flag of a corrupt monarchy is again reared on American soil, but we will chase the invaders from this continent. The nation which is unable to repress a few revolted negroes in Santo Domingo pretends to overawe this republican coalition which broke the fetters that held us for three centuries. If even all Europe menace us with invasion, let us show the enemy something worse than Moscow; they may overrun the continent with their armed legions, but we will die rather than surrender, and the tyrants must raise their palaces on human bones. There is at present a league between the rotten thrones to crush democracy, and the genius of Republicanism after being tossed about, like the frail caravels of Columbus, by the four winds of heaven, has taken refuge in this continent. Do not suppose that this is a war of reconquest. No! it is a subtle conspiracy to enslave the New World, by siding with one of the local factions and then imposing a regal Government. Maximilian has set out for Mexico, and soon he will find his laurels converted into a crown of thorns, if the gibbet of turpitude do not await him in his capital. The same policy will be tried here, and among our European guests will be found traitors sent here as spies, who betray the hospitable welcome we give them, and serve as instruments for foreign intervention. Nay, there will not be wanting an Almonte (hisses) to sell his country for the graces of the conqueror, as in Mexico where a portion of the army bravely fell beneath the walls of Puebla, another portion treacherously joined the invaders, and a valiant few still hold out under their immortal President, Juarez. But let us remember what has given rise to this scheme of foreign invasion: it is our own sad disorders, wars, and bloodshed of fifty years' duration. We must put a stop to this carnage, and unite for our common country. Those who are too old to fight can give their sons, and those who give neither their own blood nor any sons, will give their wealth. If any recalcitrant hold back let his name be an execration of infamy so that he shall be regarded as unworthy to be called American or republican. When the invaders touch our soil we will make a rampart of our breasts, and if we fall our bones will be used to produce heroes, to teach the decaying nations of Europe that our heart is warm as the volcanoes of the Andes, our spirit ample as the plains of the Pampas, and our courage impetuous as the mighty rivers of this continent. Let our motto be "Patrius mori quam foedari!" (Death before dishonor).

The talented speaker sat down amid a perfect hurricane of applause.

Dr. Navarro Viola (Revista de Buenos Ayres) said: In order that my words should not partake of the heat of extemporaneous oratory, I have written them down. We are all of accord in the object of this agitation. The foreign press, alone, of this city, has thought fit to oppose it, on the grounds that no danger really exists, but an inspired writer (Joly) says—"I am no prophet, but when I see red clouds at sunset, I know that it betokens a stormy morrow." And certainly our political horizon is overcharged. Mexico and St. Domingo have fallen, and Peru is menaced. But this storm has been gathering for 30 years; in 1814, at the Congress of Verona, the great Powers agreed to labour for the suppression of democracy and representative governments, and the protocol was signed by the Ministers of France, Russia, Austria, and Prussia. I am glad to say the British envoy declined to sign, and his conduct was not only ratified by the English Government, but the latter actually sent intimation to the United States of the secret convention. The advocates of 'divine right of kings' were checked in their designs against South America, by the generous opposition of Great Britain, and the growing importance of the Great Republic. A Congress was convened at Panama, at which Chili and Buenos Ayres failed to assist: the North American envoy arrived too late. Had that Congress succeeded in forming a general alliance, we should not now be menaced. But European tyrants take advantage of the present war in the United States, which God grant may soon terminate, to awaken the giant from the stupor of death in which his enemies seek to poison him. Alas! for the country of Washington, now torn by civil war; the men of 1786 died for the Southern States as well as the Northern. Citizens, let us give a bravo to the United States (shouts of "bravo.") Spain has arisen from a lethargy of 45 years, and provokes us to renew the struggle of Independence: the danger that threatens us is greater than that of 1810, so be ye resolute in the great and glorious task (loud cheers).

The confusion that ensued was so great that a gentleman proposed to turn out every one making a noise, which produced great mirth.

At length the talented editor of the "Tribuna" got a hearing.

D. Hector Varela said—It is a good omen that we are met in the theatre which bears the name of the discoverer of this continent, the Genoese marine, who wandered about from court to court begging his bread until an illustrious woman (Isabella) took up his project. The cause of the people is in danger, and we have before us the sad cases of Poland, Hungary, and Italy, so that if the Spanish cannon booms in La Plata we must imitate the example set us by the heroic Spaniards themselves at Leleu and Saragossa (cheers).

Sor. Palacios said—The recent Saravina mission was preceded by military preparations, and it seems monarchy was declared war to republicanism. I propose that we cut off all commercial and diplomatic relations with France and Spain, until Mexico and Peru be restored to independence (cheers).

Dr. Chassaign (Pueblo) said—I did not want to speak, but as the chairman has requested me to say something, I would beg of you to turn your eyes to the Prophet of America; he (Bilbao) foretold the danger (shouts of 'he lies'), he gave the alarm ('he lies'), and you should seat him with the committee of veterans. [Here M. Bilbao went on the stage.] This meeting should adopt his resolutions, but it seems to me you answer his cry for 'Deeds, deeds,' with 'Vanity, vanity, vanities.' There has been too much talk. Let us adopt the resolutions of Messrs. Bilbao and Palacios get up a volunteer corps, cut off all relations with France and Spain—

Here a gentleman exclaimed—

Enough of this edifying humbug, remember my friends that we are not a legislative body, and have no right to usurp the duties of Congress and President! (Shouts of 'you are right.') The confusion became so great that he withdrew, but the assembly soon after proceeded to General Mitre's and the President, taking a Peruvian banner in his hand, made a speech of vague generalities.

The meeting broke up at 3 p.m.

ARGENTINE CAPITALISTS.

Our last remarks, respecting these influential magnates, has, after all, been productive of some good, inasmuch as it has wrung from one Argentine millionaire a subscription for 'fifty shares' of the Argentine Central Railway Company. So magnificent a subscription, from an Argentine capitalist, merits our warmest praise. People at home will no doubt laugh at the idea of turning 50 shares a magnificent patronage, but it must be remembered that rich men in these countries hitherto looked up their fortunes in iron boxes, and hid them in the bowels of the earth. In dealing with the capitalists of the present day, of course, we must admit we have men of far different ideas, but as a general rule, the native capitalists have earned for themselves a reputation for ' stinginess,' only creditable in a pawnbroker.

We cannot be persuaded to follow the example of our colleagues, and let these Argentine nabobs escape the apathy which they exhibit in the Argentine Central Railway scheme, leaves them open to the imputation of narrow-minded selfishness. Blind to their own interests, they cannot comprehend how their reluctance to invest in the shares of this company, is the most damning proof of their utter want of confidence in the Government or the country.

Enterprise is a word which our capitalists cannot comprehend; their sole ambition seems to be able to build a splendid house to live in, and keep a carriage to take their families to the 'Progreso Ball,' or the Opera, but beyond that their ambition does not soar.

Fifty shares in a company which, when carried out, will double the value of every square foot of land in this country. Why, a commercial clerk at home would be almost ashamed to put his name down for less than one hundred.

If there was any proof wanting to demonstrate the miserable character of the capitalists of this country, it is, we insist, now placed beyond all doubt by the share list of the Argentine Central Railway Company. Ten thousand shares, which in Europe would be at once taken by ten men, of more spirit but less capital, than Srs. Anchorena, Lecama, Cobo, Saavedra, Alzaga, Atucha, Cano, Pastor, Obligado, Pena, Elias, Lilavallol, Pereyra, Casares, Lezica, Martinez, Fernandez, and some fifty others, whose names we have not room for. This trifling of ten thousand shares, embraces a list of subscribers as long almost as that of the 'Reforma Pacifica' when faced some years ago.

The agents of the company having exhausted all the sergeants, ensigns, and officers of the Argentine army, all the public clerks who eke out a livelihood on a miserable salary: all the shoemakers, tinkers, barbers, a titbit quant, from the Arroyo Medio to Cordova, at last come to the native capitalists, the men who should have been the very first to subscribe for so deserving an enterprise.

We are all fuss and feathers at present about the Chincha Islands, all are boiling over with indignation about Pinzon; but meanwhile the agent of the Central Railway goes his rounds to get subscribers, knocks at the doors of the wealthy Argentines, and is most politely bowed out.

Accustomed as we are to believe that 'charity begins at home,' we are somewhat surprised to witness the great sympathy expressed for Peru, and apathy for Mr. Wheelwright. Arms are to be bought, ships constructed, and money subscribed for Peru, whilst yet the share list of the Central Railway wants some three thousand five hundred, of being filled up. If this is not the greatest farce that was ever attempted to be perpetrated on a free people, we know not what to say.

The latest mails from Valparaiso have brought the gratifying intelligence, that what Argentine capitalists failed in, Chilians are about to accomplish. Several of the leading Chilean capitalists have sent respectable orders for shares, so that the probabilities are, that the Argentines will be deprived of the opportunity of investing their surplus ounces in a gigantic industrial enterprise, and will be at liberty to put them down in a well as heretofore.

EDITOR'S TABLE

The heirs of John Joseph Simon are notified by the Escribano Demaria to present themselves to receive their share of his property.

A fellow named Manuel Perez, who is charged with having committed homicide in San Nicolas, has fled. He is now called upon to attend, or his bail will proceed in his absence. We regard it as a foolish thing to try a man who is not forthcoming.

The question of losses incurred by the owners of the British barque 'Sultana,' in consequence of a decree of Rosas, prohibiting the entrance of English vessels into this port, in the year 1845, has been decided by the Fiscal, who asserts that the Argentine Government is not responsible for such losses.

We perceive that, according to the bank statement for the month of May, that the money lent out in San Nicolas up to that date is nearly a million and a quarter, in the Villa Mercedes a trifle over a million, and in Dolores only $1,770. The amount of money due the bank by the Western Railway is twenty-nine millions and a half.

The great steamboat debt due by the old Parana Government to Sr. Cabal, has at last been allowed. It may be remembered that some two years ago this claim caused the greatest excitement, as it was said this debt was contracted to vanquish Buenos Ayres, and should not be recognized; however, they have changed since then, and people of all political shades scorn the idea of repudiation on any grounds.

The non-arrival of the "Mercy" yesterday left us rather hard up for news, but as the Colon meeting had to be reported, we were rescued from the dilemma.

Sunday was a great day in town. Owing to the scandalous condition of the roads people could go nowhere beyond the pavement. The balloon man and the Peru friends had the city divided. Colon was crowded, and as for the Plaza, when it was known that Mr. Wells was on the ground, the rush was awful.

Sr. Herrera, of Barracas, has most generously offered a site in his splendid quinta for the building of a church. The neighbors all round promise to subscribe handsomely, and as the location is probably the best in Barracas, we hope the Bishop will give his sanction.

One of our National Ministers has lately invested in a snug little quinta on the Barraca road. It is a rather unpretending homestead for so great a man as a minister, but it was sold very cheap, $12,000.

Don Fermin Bastaldo, a native estanciero, who was half ruined by the soldiers at the battle of Cepeda, has presented a claim to Government for damages, which has been disallowed on the plea that the soldiers who committed the depredations acted under no authority, and consequently the Government cannot be held responsible. This is a poor excuse, and we regret sincerely that this unfortunate native estanciero should be so victimized.

Up to the hour of going to press nothing was known of Mr. Wells and his balloon. It is popularly believed that he went across to the other side to see what Flores and the ministers are doing. Meanwhile we have not heard if his proposition to go to Chile has been accepted or not. It is more than probable the plan will not be considered until some of the water schemes are passed.

Palermo, it seems, is about to be turned to some account. The Belgrano municipality are making an arrangement with Sr. Reviro for opening a School of Mechanical Arts on the premises. The great dining hall is to be converted into a carpenter's shop, the splendid drawing room into a sort of blacksmith's forge, the old empaneled bed room where "off the tyrant sleep" is to be armed with latches, &c., even Manuelita's sweet boudoir where—if report be true—the pounded maize, is to be the saw room. Sic transit gloria mundi.

Our colleagues very justly complain that the members of the local legislature are most careless in attendance. Days and weeks pass over, and no session is held, simply because, there is no quorum. Several very important measures are at present before the House, but there they lay until people cease to take interest in the measures. The Senators and Deputies should every morning be called, on a fine of five thousand paper dollars to come and attend, then we promise the public we should never come short of a quorum.

The steamer arrived from the Uruguay, but brought no important news. Flores, when last heard of, was at Mar del Chico. He has two hundred riflemen, we hear, and a thousand cavalry. The people about Carmelo complain terribly of the "auxilio" which is levied. The Salta revolution seems to have been a much more important matter than what the people at first thought. The 'Nacion' published a long account of the matter, by which it appears that all the deputies and senators opposed to young Uruburu, were shipped into prison and the city held by him with about 40 men. We believe there was a sort of reaction, however, the next day, and the author of the coup de Province had to escape. This Saltean business is rather disreputable, and shows the real footing of these Provincial Governments.

President Mitre, we hear, has promised to act as president of the new literary society, which will shortly hold its first meeting.

The ground rent of Colon we hear is to be raised to sixty ounces a month. Nothing could be more unjust or extravagant than such a sum. Not even in the finest cities in Europe would the ground rent of such a building be so enormous as £1,500 per annum. There cannot be the least doubt that if any such measure was introduced into our legislature the members of the house would at once throw it out.

The college row in Uruguay, Entre Rios, is completely suffocated. Six or seven students are still in prison, but the Director is back again discharging his duties. It appears that only for the police of Uruguay the college would have been fired or torn down.

Profound politicians say that Brazil wants to invade Paraguay in company with this Republic, and that the Brazilian Minister holds President Mitre to the terms of a secret alliance made with Urquiza in 1859, by which the Argentine Republic engaged to supply 10,000 men and Brazil 12,000 men to attack Paraguay. SAVINGS BANK

BANK MAU & CO

No. 103 calle de Cangallo. —

BUENOS-AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt, and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate—Montevideo & Buenos Ayres—that there are very few Mercants who fail to keep one at the Bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mau & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working class in that city, a safe & profitable depository for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of Clerks, artisans, working-men & servants of all classes & conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mau & Co. of this city following the example of their Buenos Ayres September 19th 1863.
