perties are at present offered for sale,
the terms and details of which may be learned on application at the office of Mr. Patrick Brown No. 64 calle Peru, or of Mr. John Hughes, broker, at the Baha.

1st.—15,000 fine meadows, lying in the Partido of Arica, on the land known as Pontecuelas, which will be sold before or after clearing, as best suits intending purchasers. If desired, these sheep may be left on their present grazing.

2d.—A potrero, composed of 25 hectares square of productive land, situated in the cattle sale at Barracas, close to the Conservatorio; it is subdivided into 20 lots with the necessary facilities for each lot in case it were destined for building purposes;
the plan may be consulted at Mr.
Brown's office.

3d.—The well-known solitario of Brown, standing on this side of Bar-racas bridge, comprising all the properties requisite for this branch of business, and moreover amply furnished with vans, instruments, in shelter, cylinders, corrals and other appurtenances, ready for working on the purchase of cattle.

4th.—A tract of alfalfa, bounded on one angle by the Barracas bridge, fronting the calle Real on one side and the calle Sala on another.
This ground is high and adapted for building.

5th.—A corralon, very large North of the above Establishment.

6th.—A lovely country-house and farm, on the coast of San Pedro, about 10 leagues from Buenos Aires, and near the village. It contains 10 hectares square, with a large modern residence forming a front. There are 14 apartments with salons, coach-house, stable, barn, &c., all in excellent repair. The pasture lands are extensive and there are excellent fruit-trees, besides a garden nearly 1

THE WEEKLY STANDARD.

Future prospects.

"Coming events cast their shadows before." Thus the affair of Pavon foretold the fate of Rosario, and wise observers pretend to read the future of this country from our present state. But, at best we can only guess, and the dream of national regeneration would require another Joseph to interpret, ere we could rely on the chances of the issue.

The war, say some, is not over, but only commencing. One round has been fought, yet neither of the state pugilists is inclined to give in; the venue is changed, and the great suit of Mitre versus Derqui will again come off. The verdict of Santa Fé must be tried by appeal to the Upper Provinces, where both parties expect to find a favorable jury. Mitre is not satisfied, since he has scored but one count, and Derqui is obstinately bent on holding out to the last, since, with him, defeat involves jeopardy. The former sees his work unfinished so long as a vestige of the old regime remains, and deems it more difficult to stop short, than it would have been ever to begin. The latter regards his past defeat as a common reverse of arms, and judges that by falling back on his own ground, he will, like the Titans of old, recover fresh strength to combat the Buenos Ayrean Jupiter. The former relies on the prestige of recent success to annihilate a dispirited foe. The latter expects to avail himself of the shifting tide of war, to float again his Presidential barge, now high and dry, but not quite shipwrecked. If we believe reports, Derqui's underlings have gained a complete victory in Tucuman and are about to seize Santiago, as compensation for Mitre's holding Rosario. This gives the Federals reason to hope that all is not lost, and that they can make another stand against the invading army. At the same time, it suffices to show Mitre that there is yet an enemy to conquer, and that the only solution of the disputed question lies in the sword. The hostile fleet is not taken, fortifications are raised at Diamante; while Derqui preaches an active crusade, Urquiza holds a menacing uncertainty of attitude, and Pascual Rosas and Virasoro are still in arms. Therefore we must have a tedious war.

Again others are of opinion that peace is certain, and at hand. The result of Pavon has been decisive, in proof of which Derqui did not hazard a second struggle by defending Rosario. Urquiza too was evidently anxious to finish the contest one way or other, and when fortune declared against him, he wished not to prolong hostilities, which virtually depended on his presence, and declared a truce by returning to his estancia. The nomination of Virasoro, and such other measures, were but to save appearances; a show of opposition and some slight delay are the requisite preface to an arrangement. The partido party have already proved victorious, have already enough to gratify vanity and give weight to their wishes; the federal have still sufficient elements to enforce equitable terms, though not, to subdue Buenos Ayres. The safety of our troops scarcely permits their penetrating remote provinces; the financial difficulties of Paraná point to a long contest as inevitable bankruptcy. The dispersion of the Confederate forces, and inactivity of Urquiza prevent Derqui from facing Mitre. The doubtful intentions of the upper provinces, and proffered assistance of the Captain-General caution us to be slow in throwing down the gauntlet for the protection of the chamelion-colored provincials, and risking the advantages once secured—Thus not only self-interest, but prudence, is mutually engaged in favor of peace, and a careful consideration of our present position would lead us to believe that the embryo now ripening will issue from the womb of futurity rather as a double-faced Janus than a capite Mars.

Gross outrage.

No wonder some foreigners fear our own troops more than the enemy, for the love of law and order does not seem to animate the petty tyrants and military grandees of our country districts. Two Irishmen from the Villa Luxan have made us the following statement, and from their antecedents we are inclined to give them every credence.

"There is a certain Zamudio who holds some commission, between Colonel and drummer, in the National Guard. Being encamped on one Oliver's land he looked about for the gringos who had sheep and, leaving the estancia with his 15 flocks, pounced on a poor Irishman named Cornelius Harrington. Having taken a number of cap-ns, he went away, and our countryman demands compensation."

We think the government is bound to attend to this case, for if the unfortunate victim be told that he has no claim, not having a receipt from the Justice of the Peace, then no man's property is safe from the camp soldier who shows such a preference for cattle raised by foreigners.

When a man of sense, says Mrs. Hannah More, comes to marry, it is a companion whom he wants; not merely a creature who can paint, and play, and dress and dance; it is being who can comfort and counsel him; one who can reason, and reflect, and feel, and judge, and act, and discourse, and discriminate; one who can assist him in his affairs, lighten his cares, soothe his sorrows, purify his joys, strengthen his principles, and educate his children.

The Argentine Provinces

The most important and wonderful item ever published in our local press, is the mission of Sor Ocampo on the part of Urquiza to offer Mitre his alliance. It has long been asserted that the Captain General was opposed to the war, and all parties believed that the plea of sickness was a sham. Yet it is quite true that he is very ill, (some say that he has suffered a second stroke of apoplexy,) and we learn from Mr. Ocampo that his under jaws have so fallen that it is necessary to tie them with a handkerchief. While ready, however, to make peace, he is not unprepared in the event of hostilities. Besides mentioning Diamante, where he has mounted cannon and drawn up his fleet under the batteries, he has removed his head-quarters from San José to Calé, formed a battalion of niggers, and kept the militia of the villages yet under arms.

From Paraná we read that the resignations of Echagüe and Olmos, in the departments of War, and the Interior were but the prelude to an universal dissolution of the Cabinet. The press was loud in calling for a new ministry including Victoria, Carril, and Lopez Jordan, but the government made short work of it, suppressing all papers except the "Boletín Oficial." The Banished journals took refuge in, and around, Diamante. Calvo and Barra had taken furlough, and gone, it is supposed, to Corrientes. General Galarza is about to be raised to the grade of Brigadier-General: we do not know in what page of history are read his exploits. Lopez Jordan is gone to Paraná with the view of bringing his wife and children to San José, which he deems a safe residence than the quondam capital.

The President's whereabouts is not well defined. By one account he is on a second pilgrimage to Córdoba, by another he is assembling forces near the city of Santa Fé. Paraná is almost deserted and unprotected by soldiers, and there is a surmise that the seat of Government may be translated to Corrientes. This latter city, by the way, is said to be on the eve of revolution, but, after all we have seen of Córdoba and the northern provinces, we place no reliance on imaginary reactions.

The news from Tucuman is quite distasteful to Buenos Ayres, and has come unexpected. At a place called Amanafales a bloody conflict took place between the Liberal party under Governor Villafañe, and a Federal force commanded by one Col. Navarro, whom Derqui had nominated to restore Alcora in the Government of Santiago. The official account gives a complete victory to the latter, but, as they were riging bells for their success at Pavon, it is possible the boosted conquerors came off second-best. At the same time it is remarkable that even the prestige of Pavon has not lighted up the revolution that we were told, was smouldering in the North.

In Rosario, we find that the flowers strewn on Mitre at his entrance, were not typical of the general feeling. The Tribunal of Commerce refused to exercise their functions, and even the girls won't dance with our presu che rriers, not-withstanding the attractions of gold lace &c. Our general has been the subject of angry speeches for continuing in office many of the former employés; every fire-side politician and sapient journalist: condemn his policy as if they understood the general's business better than himself, or doubted the integrity of their greatest hero. Yet, we have no doubt the only man capable of weathering the political storm is Mitre, and if his hands be not tied by our Executive, he will bring the crisis to a happy issue. The upshot of Taboada's resistance to Derqui will have an important effect on the nation. It is probable the President will call in San to invade Santiago, and as that province is strong, it is difficult to foresee how this last stroke of the Federal power will result.

City intelligence.

The event of the week has been the "Mississippi's" trip to Rosario. Agitation, to use a Hibernianism, was growing stagnant, and an excursion ticket proved just the thing to fill a blank in statesmanship, amuse the sober citizens, and bring golden returns to the ship-broker. When we consider that the fare was a doubloon, and the passengers 400 in number, some idea may be formed of the propriety of the speculation. On arriving at Rosario a soirée was given on board, (which, with Capt. Harrison's accustomed kindness, was free of expense) and the laurel-crowned soldiers and fair dames of our city enjoyed a convivality of which they had been some time deprived.

"Business first, pleasure after" is a useful adage, but sometimes reversed, south of the Line; and so the next topic on our list is railways & telegraph. The line to Chascomus proposed by Mr. Lumb, one of our leading English merchants, will be 75 miles long with a guarantee of 7 p 2 for 40 years, on a Capital of £ 10,000 per mile. We believe these are the sane terms on which the San Fernando project was based. In passing the Chamber of Deputies it met with some opposition; and our colleague the Con. Times, attacks Mr. Lumb's proposal with great vehemence in arguments of some length and reasoning. It remains for the Senate to give their approval, which is expected shortly, as it is said Messrs. Peto & Brassey are ready to commence at once. Every foreigner in the country will admit that steam communication must here prove highly advantageous, and we are only too glad to notice that the Deputies are called on to sanction the emission, at 6 p 2 of 25 millions currency for the purpose of continuing the Mereno (Western) Line as far as Mercedes, this capital of our interior districts. At the same time government has asked a guarantee for 20 years, of 6 p 2 on 150,000 silver dollars for laying down an electric submarine cable between this city and Montevideo. Even more important than all these, is a vote for Emigration purposes which is currently rumored as proposing 2 millions annually, available for assisting industrious persons to come and settle in this country.

Gen. Mitre has been confirmed in his rank of Brigadier-general already bestowed on him by the Confederation. Several changes, chiefly reductions, have been made in the Budget: in extraordinary estimates and public works a saving of half a million, in enclosing the state college a reduction of 120,000 $ currency, in public-school annals and the University 65,000 $ making a total of 2,127,000 $ reduction from the budget of 1861 with a set-off of 55,000 $ new estimates.

Our Postmaster-general, Sor Posadas, has laudably turned his attention to gathering wool specimens, for the formation of a Museum of this article; and we cannot too strongly recommend our countrymen to join with him in so useful an enterprise. Each sheep-farmer is requested to send a specimen of the various breeds he may raise, cutting a lock of wool from the shoulder blade of the animal, and stating the quality of rams used in the refinement, with the quality of pasture and number of such flocks.

Friends of a cheap press will be glad to know that the Government was defeated in its attempt to charge postage for newspapers. At present our river-transit is poorly served almost cut off. The city is slowly improving, but the country districts have completely receded from the effects of the war. In town there is great demand for farm-servants, who are at once taken off to the searing. Our rural friends are busy at their favorite occupation, and have no fears of a drought next summer, thanks to the plentiful rain sent them by Providence.

To our subscribers.

The "Weekly Standard" in announcing to its subscribers that it has now completed six months of literary existence, returns sincere and grateful acknowledgments for the support so generously bestowed by a discriminating, though indulgent, public.

At present we are undecided, whether it would better suit to publish it in the same size as the "Tribuna," or twice a week on the present sheet. We are open to suggestions on this point, and will carry out the declared wish of our supporters, from January 1st.

Meantime our camp friends will please remember, when next in town, to pay up the past months, along with a year, or half a year, in advance.

All communications should be prepaid and addressed to the Editor; no charge for insertion.

SOUTH AMERICA. Chile.

Dates are up to Sept. 15th. The Senate had already approved and passed to the Chamber of Deputies a law authorizing the President to carry out the line of railway from Valparaiso to Quillota, the state giving security for all funds so invested. Another bill was presented to the Senate for constructing a line from Santiago to Valparaiso; this is the most important project of the kind yet started in Chile, uniting the capital with the emporium of the Pacific: on the 12th it received the sanction of both legislative chambers.

Montevideo.

The Chambers passed a vote of approval respecting the acts of the government in the affair with the Vicar General Yera. It is probable these gentlemen, who have deposed the spiritual authority, know as much about canon-law as authorizes them to take the religious training of the people in their own hands; at least they think so.

Forged notes of one dollar each were in circulation. They are marked "Banco Comercial, 1º Octubre 1853."

It is said that Urquiza is conveying more arms from this republic to his province of Entre Rios.

LOCAL EVENTS.

Bank.—This house has removed its offices to the new edifice in calle Cangallo, beside Fusoni's. The facade and interior are really splendid.

Removed.—The Artesian well is commencing to bore Barracas, in search of water; the works in calle Piedral are only suspended till the arrival of new machinery from France.

It never rains, &c.—After the recent fall, we are apparently going ahead in it; the railway to Chascomus, the line to Mercedes, and the telegraph to Montevideo are again in motion, that is, on paper.

French bañños.—The "Tribuna" says this company is making itself highly ridiculous and cures people of spleen.

European mails.—The next French packet won't come, but a Brazilian steamer instead: the "Mersey" intends to be 4 days late; both vessels stop in Rio, to get painted.

Wool-exports.—Messrs. Guerin & Son give us the following statistics; exported in the year 55 to 60, 49,970 bales. Do. " 59 " 60, 37,452 " Do. " 60 " 61, 61,792 "

The decrease in 59 to 60 was owing to the epidemic on sheep, and the differential duties.

The "Chimborazo."—This is the lofty and volcanic title of a newspaper, published in this office, by some patriotic youths, who profess to imitate the Tribuna & Co.

Capt. Carlweis.—In another column will be found the expression of thanks by the passengers of the "Mersey" to the respected commander of that vessel. It does not say what the testimonial consisted of, but, many will suppose—by anticipation—a cradle.

Doubloons.—Our gold specie still rates high, closing price yesterday was 403 1/2 $ currency.

Packet edition.—This week's No. is published one day earlier, to bring latest news to Europe by the supplemental packet, which leaves this evening at 6 P. M.

Time-table.—From Nov. 1st the first train leaves Parque station at 6 A. M.: 2nd at 10: 3rd at noon: 4th at P. M. & 5th at 6. The 3rd train stops at Moron.

Holy-day.—Next Friday, the feast of All Saints is a strict church holiday.

Mitre's bust.—M. Duteil whom our readers will remember as the son of the late eminent French philosopher, has executed a life-like bust of Mitre. Our talented friend Don Ricardo Gutierrez wrote a very pretty notice of same, in the Tribuna, which does equal honor to the subject & the writer.

The Weather.—Tuesday 10 A. M. Since last night, it has blown a strong gale from the S. E. accompanied with rain. Sta. Rosa has come late, and threatens almost no damage, as in the terrible storm of August 59. Probably we shall hear of some shipping disasters; the supplemental mail cannot go; you are disappointed, the Mississippi having burst anchorage and stranded.

Prisoners exchanged.—It seems Urquiza released Col. Paz from his prison in Paraná, and Mitre, not wishing to be outdone in generosity, sent home all the Entre-Rios captives.

Strango bot.—A regular swell, fulfillment of bet of 20,000$, perished himself in a tailor's window, opened the bank, and might be seen remaining there immovable from noon to 2 P. M. on the day before yesterday. The neighbours were greatly amused at this novel feat "a man about town."

THE AFFAIRS OF MEXICO.

The news from Mexico is the most favourable that, under the circumstances, could have been hoped, since it announces that the Mexican government and congress, by attempting new acts of spoliation, have at length caused the representatives of France and England to break off diplomatic intercourse, preparatory, it may be assumed, to more vigorous measures. As the Mexican importations this year are believed to have nearly doubled those of 1860, the proportion of the duties belonging to the British creditors would have gone far towards paying the interest of their claims; and it is simply a question whether the robbery of these duties shall continue, or whether the British Government will order ships of war stationed at Vera Cruz to insist upon their collection. Although the annual loss to this country is 900,000, the indifference manifested by our Foreign Office during the last three years to the personal and pecuniary outrages inflicted on British subjects has been such as to lead the Mexicans to rely upon perfect impunity, and it is probable that but for the determination of France not to tolerate any longer the existing state of affairs, our people could still have clamoured in vain for protection and redress. Hitherto the United States have interfered as far as possible to prevent any concerted action that might place the republic in a position of respectability and strength, their avowed policy having been to contrive that the nation should "drink the cup of anarchy to the very dregs" until it should fall to them without a struggle. But these influences are now at an end, at the very moment when the fruit is ready to drop, and there is good ground to hope that the present year will not close without the removal of the disgrace inflicted on the humanity and civilization of all countries of the world by the fact of their permitting the horrors of the last three years to continue.

Mr. Sato's Adventure in Banda Oriental.

Banda Oriental 19 Oct. 1853. To the Editor of the Weekly Standard.

Sir, When I tell you that I am a Pagan by birth, you will not be surprised that I have been obliged to create a Plate in the present disturbed situation of the country. I am by profession a tailor, called in the language of chivalry a "Knight of the thumb" and though Dame Nature has blessed me with great pains in fashioning visible framework, I have never until now the world with a shorter, near-sighted man, I have not been able to see a creature, yet Authorities of Buenos Ayres that it requisite for the public safety command my appearance in the uniform of their army as a soldier. Why not the bare idea of the thing is odious. In my crippled state I stand a very bad chance in the rear army, besides being of no use to it, for it is utterly out of my power to run. A Soldier! This only command should ever be capable of obeying that of "halt!" and this alas! hourly forced to do. In these instances what course could I pursue to follow the example of many other men who preceded me by plugging my native city, and the year I had, unlike some of my name, no other inducements to me quit Buenos Ayres, for I had no wife or important business. The first thing I did after leaving this coast, was of course to get a horse, and being naturally a seems one that would seem likely to do a great amount of work with a little food and rest as possible, I willingly parted with a gold ounce for an animal of the Bucephalus stamp. But I had no sooner thrown my shorter leg over him when a person came up and claimed the quadruped as his, and after much altercation my eyes were opened to the fact that I had been most egregiously taken in. It seems that it had been an agave horse I had bought, and as the owner, backed by a crowd of his ragamuffin friends, affirmed in very choice diction that there could be no sale in the circumstances, I was glad to give him up and make myself scarce, satisfied to be last however that there had been a sale, but that I, not the horse, was the article sold. I was most fortunate in my next speculation, having for the small sum of five dollars become master of a high boned steed of the Rosinaw breed, on which, like a Knight in the days of yore, I sallied forth in search of a home if not employment. My life for the last few weeks has been a very vagrant one, for though I make myself wonderfully agreeable to females and children, yet it is not difficult to discover that after staying one night at a house, the sooner I am off again, the less chance I have of seeing our looks. Sometimes I have lived with one family for a whole week, but then I had all the rage of the establishment through my hands, from Don Thingamy's poncho down to the youngest child's footless socks. Work of this vulgar description often brought desponding thoughts into my head, for I had been accustomed to adorn the handsome figures in Buenos Ayres, and I could not regard my camp employment with any thing but disgust. In one English house I was lucky enough to meet with a few numbers of "The Weekly Standard," and you may be sure I perused all the news from my usual spot with greedy satisfaction. All the information regarding the war greatly interested me, and I looked eagerly for an authentic announcement of a battle in which I hoped one or both of the contending armies had been completely annihilated. But as yet such a blissful paragraph has not met my longing eyes, and I am consequently doomed to linger in this strange land and stitch away. The Cabildo Clock controversy also attracted my attention, and I came to the conclusion that men who would idly waste time in presence of time's teller, should be forced to adorn the inside of the same building, the outside of which the Clock is intended to decorate. But I was staggered more most of all, was the announcement regarding the establishment of a provident Institution for the British Clerks. Bless me! said I to myself, what are people coming to at last! Are Clerks becoming so incapable of keeping the residue of their salaries, that they are compelled to enter it to the tender mercies of a Treasurer of a Society? Have their eyes no longer opened to the fact that fine clothes, havanah cigars, opera tickets, paste jewels and paste confections are all useless luxuries and may we now expect to see the repentant British Clerk clothed in molasses and corduroy, if not in sackcloth and ashes? If this should turn out to be the case, then I may exclaim with Othello—"Mr. Snip's occupation is gone!" Old Mr. Editor if you only knew the pride I took in some of the young men in Buenos Ayres you would really sympathize with me although I say it who should not, many of them owe their success in business and love to their cutting and sewing exertions. If you had only seen them when they arrived in this country, you would have thought it an utter impossibility that their extra-ordinary feet would ever be taught to skip gracefully through a polka, or their clumsy and badly attired bodies could ever be made to bend in an elegant bow. They appeared so boorish that really I do not think they could tell the numerical difference between a pair of trousers and a pair of coats. But now behold them! Examine any one who has passed through my hands, and I challenge you to produce a native so neat in his attire or so aristocratic in his bearing. But alas! this Provident Institution will ruin all. Our confettias will be unattended—our opera houses will be full of empty benches—our promenades will be robbed of their glitter, and Mr. Snip's needle will grow pointless. And the young ladies, what is to become of them? No more beads—no more theatres—no more balls—no more evening parties—no more pic-nics—no more—what? Indeed I can only repeat the cry and say—no more.

The scenery on this side of the river is prettier than in the Bs. Ayres Camp. The Country is more undulating and consequently there are Montes and Arroyos in abundance. The people in general are civil, hospitable and honest. One seldom hears of a robbery or a murder; but even here we live in dangerous times on account of the war. Reds and whites are scattered over the country; and it is as much as your throat is worth to hazard an open confession of your principles. As for me, I endeavor to be "all things to all men"—a rody among the reds, and a white among the whites, for I can assure you the sight of a glittering knife is enough to make one red and white by turns. I never meddled with politics and judging that I have no right to suffer any loss from what I never interfered with, I have, through life, made it a rule to side with the strongest, and though parties have ridiculed me and called me "turncoat," I quietly held my needle before their eyes & told them in reply that it was my profession. There is one thing however that haunts me continually—the fear of being taken for a spy. To avoid exposing my habits, I write this in the open camp—the ground for my desk and the burning sun above me for blotting paper. But this scribble you will see is not so bad after all, for when quite a youth my father obliged me to cultivate the art of penmanship, in case I should be forced to earn my livelihood at the desk, a necessity to which I am glad to say I was not driven, owing to the appearance of promising symptoms in my early illness. I would not for all my stock in trade be caught by a red or a white writing at this present moment. I have a horror of sudden deaths, hill-side burials and all that sort of thing, and these point to my fate if I should be taken for a spy. As I live Mr. Editor I see three horsemen coming up from the valley below, and so, without striking another I must bid you adieu—You shall hear from me again if they are galloping—Adios!

I am,
Your Obedt. Servt.

England.—Rates of freight are maintained, but shipments continue on a very limited scale.

Antwerp.—The vessels berthed are engaging chiefly dry hides. Bales and Salted hides scarce.

France.—French vessels are scarce & those not loading have their full cargoes engaged, rates of freight are likely to improve when the new wool comes in.

United States.—Nothing doing, and no vessel on the berth.

Freights in general.—The new wool may not be expected shortly when we shall no doubt experience a want of suitable tonnage, but for the present the few vessels on the berth are sufficient for the little cargo which offers: we cannot yet form an idea when the Saladeros will commence working.

Salt.—There is no stock in first hands, neither is there any enquiry for the article.

Cool.—The demand does not improve & even last prices are difficult to obtain.

Wool.—Is saleable at last quotations.

Cargo engaged for vessels loading.

England.—Salted ox-hides 13,000, horse do 11,100; dry ox-hides 7,550 horsealo. 2,000; tallow 237 pps, 30 bxs; mares grease 175 pps, 400 lbs.; wool 450 bales tobacco, 500 pps.

Market report.
The late political events would seem to have had a happy effect on trade in general, which is beginning to recover visibly from its recent prostration.

Rice, Carolina, sold at 12 S, a cask inconsiderable: India, stock large but holders demand high prices: Italian, nothing doing: Brazil best quality saleable.

Sugar, refined in great demand; French at 45; American 10 1/2 rls, Brasil, steady at 16 1/2 rls, Cuba white 17 rls, saleable.

Beer, the season is coming, for heavy consumption, 100 bbls., Allsop sold at 53 $ currency, 800 do. Tennent at 16 rls.

Gin, well-assorted, prices 10 to 1 1/2 rls.

Flour, this article has fallen notably and is progressive decline owing to a full market.

Liquors, stock considerable, very dull.

Raisins, well assorted and in demand.

Wines, very active, Catalan 5 1/2; Bordeaux 6 1/2; Malaga 5 1/2 Port 5; Sherry dull.

Whiskey, small consumption, prices falling.

Tobacco, Paraguay, superior 31 rls, middling 25 rls, medio hoja 5 pps 23 1/2 small lots maintain their price, Brazil black in demand, American heavy.

Coffee, Brazil at 350 S, no activity.

Oil, Very dull, Spanish 95 S, Italian 114 S.

Sardines, Slow sales at 16 S & 15 S.

Yerba, Paraguay saleable at 25 1/2 to 28 rs; Paraguai at 56 and 53 S cy., but slight demand.

Wool.
The shearing commenced in this month, and is now general: we may look for arrivals of wool in all November. Mintage every prospect promises an abundant crop of good quality, though prices it is feared will rule 15 or 20 p2 lower than last year. Stock small, prices nominal. Cordoba 31 and 32 1/2 rls.

Sheepskins, Owing to the favourable news from France, and the good condition of the skins, prices have advanced very much. Great quantities are shipped to Marseilles.

Horse hair, ostrich feathers and nutria skins active; no stock.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FAILURE OF THE SIBS.—A gentleman, who has carefully trained up his servant in the way he should go, so that when his wife was present he might not depart from it, sent him with a box ticket for the theatre to the house of a young lady. The servant returned when the gentleman and his wife were at dinner. He had, of course, been told in giving answers to certain kinds of messages, to substitute the masculine for the feminine noun in speaking of the lady. "Did you see him?" said the gentleman, giving him the cue. "Yes, sir," replied the servant. "He said he'd go with a great deal of pleasure, and that he'd wait for you, sir." "What was he doing?" asked the wife, carelessly. "He was putting on his bonnet," was the reply. It is said that there was "fat in the fire" immediately. "My dear lady, your daughter is lovely," said a sister, "a perfect little pearl." "And pray, sir, what am I?" "Oh, you are the mother of pearl!" Quip says, when he sees kisses between women, it reminds him of two handsome unmatched gloves—charming things with their proper mates, but good for nothing that way. "Now look'er, Charlie, Jim must be an honest nigger, and then again he mounts; but if I was a chicken, and knowed he was about the yard, I tell yer wot, nigger, I'd roost high, I would."

"Say, Oscar Augustus, why am your legs like an organ grinder?" "Don't know, Mr. Sugarloaf—why is they?" "Cause they carry a monkey about the streets." A brick graced the head of Mr. Sugarloaf just as his ears disappeared round the corner of a street.

A gentleman was called upon to apologize for words uttered in wine. "I beg pardon," said he, "I did not mean to say what I did; but I've had the misfortune to lose some of my front teeth, and words get out every now and then without my knowledge."

A lady one day wrote to her husband the following letter, which may be quoted as a model in its way. "I write to you because I have nothing to do; I end because I have nothing to say."

An old bachelor probably wrote the following:—"Twist women and wine, moon's lot is smart; 'tis wine makes his head ache, and women his heart."

A PLEASANT YORKSHIRE.—"My joke is easy, and my burden is light," as the young man said, when his sweetheart was sitting on his lap, with her arms round his neck.

A correspondent offers his services as a letterwriter, and warrants his epistles to "start a parent's tear, stir the expiring embers of waning affection, and awaken the full ecstasy of a lover's heart."

IF WE MAY BELIEVE A correspondent of the Times, the gold diggings of Nova Scotia and the oil wells of the United States and Canada are likely to be replaced as a source of wealth by the eed bank of Rockall. Millions of eed are said to be picked up from the ocean at that lonely spot in the North Atlantic. Only four adventurous fishing smacks have found their way there as yet, but they have brought back to the Orkney Islands cargoes of eed of a fabulous value, and stories which "seem more like Sinbad the Sailor than proved facts by successful fishermen." Of course the commutation will attract the notice of naturalists as well as speculative fishermen and oil merchants; for not only does it describe shoals of very wonderful sharks and whales, but mentions "a strange fish" which was fallen in with in large numbers.

See: As the partition agreed upon could not take place, according to the views of the cabinet of Turin, until after the final settlement of the question, the Federal Council has not accepted the condition, feeling persuaded that the Court of Rome will never lend itself to such an arrangement."

THE NATIONAL EXHIBITION AT FLORENCE.—"The building of the Palace of the Exhibition here," says a letter from Florence, "is proceeding with the utmost activity. The number of workmen at present employed amounts to 3,900. The exhibition promises to be most brilliant, for the number of exhibitors inscribed already amounts to 5,600—a very respectable figure, as the number of exhibitions at Paris was, if I mistake not, only 7,000."

The King of Sweden has scarcely reached Stockholm than the nature of his journey begins to emerge. The Kvens Zitung states that an offensive and defensive alliance has been concluded between Napoleon III. and the grandson of Bernadotte. The paper also announces that the details of the treaty are in the possession of the English Cabinet, and that the number of troops to be furnished by either party, in the event of a war against Germany or England, is perfectly well known.

Lord Monck, it appears is to succeed Sir Edmund Head as Governor-General of Canada. A man of fact and ability is required for the government of the Canadian provinces. All the public know of Lord Monck is, that he was once a Lord of the Treasury, but the Globe assures us that while acting in that capacity he "evinced great business capacity, and acquired general popularity."

If we may believe the Paris correspondent of the Independence Belge, the French Ministry is about to send special agents into the departments for the purpose of ascertaining the state of public opinion, with a view to a dissolution of the Legislative body. This dissolution would become expedient if the French troops should evacuate Rome, and hopeful, if Lord Beaconsfield, politicians persist in believing, we are told, that the Emperor Napoleon will soon withdraw his army from Rome.

General Lambert, the new Lieutenant Governor of Poland, is according to the Moniteur, of French extraction, and a Catholic by creed. He is said to be charged with the promulgation of some important measures which are to form the basis of the future financial and legislative autonomy of Poland.

THE PREMIER AND THE STATION MASTER.—At one of the chief stations of the Great Western Railway (says the Western Morning News) is a station-master noted for self-conceit and flippancy. His reverence for a person with a handle to his nose is equaled only by the ostentation in which he holds himself. One day he desecrated a gentleman paing the platform with a cigar in his mouth. Mr.—at once ceased to look the audacious offender and requested him forth with to stop smoking. The gentleman took no notice of this command, but doctored his walk emitting a silvery plume. Irritated by this insolence, Mr.—repeated his rebuke more emphatically than before; but still the owner of the Havant maintained a provoking disregard. A third time the order was repeated, accompanied with the threat that if the obstinate sinner did not obey, he would be handed over to the tender mercies of the porter. The stranger took no more heed than before; and so, at last enraged, Mr.—pulled the cigar out of the smoker's mouth and flung it away. This violent act produced no more effect than commands and threats, and the peripatetic philosopher continued his walk quite serenely. Presently a carriage and four drove up—an equipage well known to Mr.—as that of the Duke of Beaufort. To his inconceivable horror the refractory smoker entered the said carriage, and drove off in style to Badminton. Mr.—asked in troublous tones who the stranger was, and he felt ready to sink into the earth when he heard that it was Viscount Palmerston, K. O., First Lord of the Treasury. He did not hesitate long however; he at once ordered a chaise and pair and drove off to Badminton.

Arrived there, he sent in his card, and urgently requested a private interview with Lord Palmerston. His lordship soon appeared, when Mr.—began a most abject apology for having "so grossly insulted his lordship. Had he known who his lordship was he would not have so treated his lordship's world."

The Premier heard the station-master out, then looking down upon him sternly, and with his hands in his pockets, said, "Sir, I respected you because I thought it was your doing your duty like a Briton; but now I see you are nothing but a snob!" And thus ended the station-master's interview with the Premier.

Mrs. LINCOLN and the PRINCESS CLOVELINE.—Mrs. Lincoln, the President's wife, is now on a visit to this city, en route for long Brazil and Newport—two of the delightful marine watering places on the Atlantic coast—and seems to enjoy life in general, and the distinctions of her fortuitous exaltation in particular, with more than ordinary ardor. Mrs. Lincoln yesterday received an introduction to the Princess Charlotte. Only the immediate attendants of both ladies were allowed in the room, and the keyhole was hermatically closed with part of a lid given by Letter from New-York in the Morning Star.
