ENTRAORDINARY ACCIDENT

That " accidents will happen in the best regulated families," we too well know; but that such an accident as the one which we are about to relate could occur in a well-regulated public office. passes our comprehension. A few of our readers will read with regret the particulars of this truly extraordinary affair, as the difficulties in the way of paying the celebrated treasury bills are scrionsly enhanced. Spiteful national creditors, no doubt, will say that Mr. Percin's version of the affair is purely imaginary, as no such thing could possibly occur; but the unjority of the treasury bill holders will lament that the accoutant-general himself was not blown up the chimney by the same draught as that which carried away the notes.

I xperience, to be of any value, must invariably be tought at a high price, and the probabilities are that henceforth the public will be less important o inyest in such securities, and the accountant-general more careful about the chimney of his stove.

As it is, we believe that the treasury bills which were blown up the chimney bills which were blown up the chimney are all well-known, and consequently if such a step were necessary, their payment stopped; but we certainly regard it as a gratuitous effort on the part of Mr. P. C. Pereira to put a notice in the papers cautioning the public from investing in a security which, long since, we regret, for the honor of this republic has been deemed perfectly worthless. worthless.

worthless. It appears that Mr. Pereira had re-ceived orders from the Government to burn a certain number of treasury hills, of the old Parana Government, and accordingly lit a fire in a large stove in his office, which stove had a long chimney attached to it. When the fire was well lit, the burning of the bills was well lit, the burning of the bills commenced in the presence of a due number of witnesses. Owing to the large amount of bills to he destroyed, the fire at times was very great. Some one oponed the window, as the office was reasting hot, and in an instant millions of dollars worth of bills were blown up the chimney before the flames caught them. What was to be done? It was suggested that Pereira should be put up the chimney by means of a long pole, with a very blunt point, but it was found impossible, as the gentleman in question was tao obese.

man in question was too obese.

After repeated exertions, the chim ney was searched, but the bills had all escaped at the top, and could not be found. A sarcastic witness observed that it was quite immaterial what had become of them; but the 'contador' had become of them; but the 'contador' had dark suspicions that they were blown into the street, and had been picked up by some cartmen. When the President was acquainted of the accident, he burst into a roar of laughter, and told Porcira 'that it was all up the spout with the Treasury bills.' A decree was at once passed, declaring the lost and unburnt bills as null and void, and there the matter ended. We hope, when next a public burning hope, when next a public burning place, that the officer whose takes place, that the officer whose duty it is to attend to the matter, will have a few sweeps present for fear of further accident.

I consider it my duty to make public these observations, as many of our wheat growers may not be aware of the poisonous qualities of this grain, in the hope of its leading to investigation. I will endeavour to give you, on a future occasion, the result of my further observation of this matter. In the meantime I remain, Yery truly yours, F. W.

The Argentine provinces are now becoming the City of Refuge for the world. Some ensthusiastic Cymrian, afraid of the dulcot Welch language dying out, proposed a colony of Welchmen, who could only talk, their mother tongue, someway down South; and now as the sect of Quakers is rapidly decreasing in Kurope, some of them have taken shelter here. We are perfectly justified in this opinion, if the following be correct. The 'Progres' publishes a note from H. Meyer, in which he is made to say, "Buislay being in prison on account of the attack he made on my person in the Victoria theatre, I have withdrawn my charge against him in order that the public may not be deprived of the performance which that company an nounces." We lament that in some of the last impact at the exception of the second section of the second less important republies commercial and material progess is too frequently im-peded by the contentions of military facpreded by the contentions of military fac-tions for offices of power but fortunately such is not the case with Chili, Peru, and Buenos Ayres. The latter countries have also most honourably fulfilled their obligations to foreign recedence. The remarks of M.
