SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1864.

BUENOS AYRES AND MONTEVIDEO.

Among the many strange communications which we receive from Europe, the last packet brought a request from a gentleman well known in the commercial world of London.

Buenos Ayres and Montevideo, the respective capitals of the Argentine and the Oriental republics are situated on opposite sides of the River Plata.

The former contains about 150,000, the latter (by census 1850) has 41,919 inhabitants.

In 1802 there were 216 steamers entered by Ayres from the sister city and the same number vice-versa.

Next morning four men came from the Police to pick up the man who remained and hid them from the public eye.

The collector and Commissary of the Aves are vainly hunting after the robber who carried off the bag of ounces at 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Regarding the passenger traffic we learn from the steam-boat agents that the number of persons carried between the two cities is about 400 weekly.

THE REIGN OF TERROR.

Wednesday at 3 p.m. a soldier entered a house in the Calle Corrientes with the purpose of robbing it.

Yesterday was an unpleasant day for political celebrities, local statesmen, and the public authorities.

On Tuesday night when the serenos were bringing to prison the man who had broken into St. Domingo church.

On Saturday night at eleven o'clock a man was attacked on the Calle Larca Barracas.

Next morning four men came from the Police to pick up the man who remained and hid them from the public eye.

The collector and Commissary of the Aves are vainly hunting after the robber who carried off the bag of ounces at 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Regarding the passenger traffic we learn from the steam-boat agents that the number of persons carried between the two cities is about 400 weekly.

RIOT AT THE CHAMBERS.

The Clubs mustered yesterday, with great results of 'riff-raff,' in front of the Chambers.

At four o'clock some shots were fired among the mob. One man was shot in the arm.

At half-past four Gen. Emilio Mitre and the editor of the 'Tribuna' came out to tell the mob the matter was over.

CORRIGENDUM.

Treaty with the Rebels.

Dates from this city have arrived up to the 14th inst.

We learn from the north camps that it rained in torrents during the first days of this week.

We are glad to learn that the Northern Railway has so much improved lately.

The Harrison-Mauvilla project would seem to be conducted with the Argentine Government.

Today is St. George's day, and tomorrow-week will be the third anniversary of our paper.

The opera of 'Miss d'Amore' will be played to-night.

Our weekly liability obliges us to conclude a sad and disagreeable occurrence between two of our countrymen.

Our weekly liability obliges us to conclude a sad and disagreeable occurrence between two of our countrymen.

DEBARQUOS DEL CORAZON.

We have received the first number of a small pamphlet of rhymes by Sor Juana Ines de la Cruz.

The first price is an address of congratulation to Dr. Don Vicente Lopez, on the anniversary of his birthday.

At a native estanciero happening to see some cowhides of his mark at a pulperia.

LAW IN THE CAMP A DERISION.

A native estanciero happening to see some cowhides of his mark at a pulperia.

Nov. Mr. Acosta, I would humbly ask, what punishment does such a man deserve.

2nd. To obtain from Government, within fifteen days from this date, a confirmation of this pardon.

3rd. To exonerate the rebels from all responsibility as to the charges imposed by Government in trying to dissolve the revolt.

4th. That during the time mentioned they will not furnish or take part in any revolutionary movement against the present Government.

5th. To be answerable (in case of the preceding article being transgressed upon) for all the expenses that may be caused by the Government.

In witness of our good faith, we sign this treaty in Lanuaya, on the 10th April, 1864.

REBELS IN THE BARRIO ORIENTAL. Sr. Gomez had addressed a document to the Government from Paysandu.
