The Standard. "All titles under a full non autodem licentia." SUNDAY, MAY 1, 1864. OUR THIRD ANNIVERSARY.

May day is an auspicious anniversary in "Merric England," and such it has also proved to the Standard, which first saw the light on the 1st of May 1861. How happy it is to look back on the infant steps of our now robust 'progre'.

DR. RAWSON'S MINISTER. Dr. Rawson has been made the butt of a scurrilous attack by the 'Pueblo,' which has not hesitated to charge him, by an insidious figure of speech, with being "a hypocrite, a traitor, a conspirator, &c."

STATE OF THE CAMP. The news we hear from all quarters respecting the condition of the camp are happy to say rather good—the grass is abundant and the sheep fat.

ANOTHER HOBBY. The delightful little town of Belgrano was thrown into considerable excitement recently, owing to a gang of robbers, having made their appearance.

Nevertheless, we cannot allow the present opportunity to pass, without repelling the imputations hurled against our Argentine Aristides.

ROAD THROUGH THE GRAN CHACO.

It was not more than three months since we called the attention of the Argentine Government and Republic to the necessity of opening direct communication between Corrientes and the upper provinces, through the Gran Chaco.

EDITORIAL TABLE.

We regret to say, that notwithstanding the very flattering reviews in the English papers, respecting the Argentine Central Railway Company, on the introduction of the Stock on the London Money Market, by private letters we learn that the credit of the National Government is at present so low in England, that Mr. Wheelwright has been seriously disappointed.

Berlin, March 17. The semi-official 'Nord Deutsches Zeitung' of this evening says: While despatches from Vienna announce that Denmark has agreed to the project of a conference, direct intelligence from London states that nothing whatever is known in that city of Denmark's acceptance of the proposal for an armistice.

NEWS FROM THE COLONIES.

The India, China, and Australian mails have arrived. The British frontier of India is now practically a quiet state. Disturbances prevail in Afghanistan which may result in the overthrow of the throne of the Amer, but at present in no way affect British interests.

By the overland mail, despatches have been received from Calcutta and Bombay. Sir John Lawrence has been ill, but is now restored to health. The Indian frontier is pacified, but there is still much restlessness among the border tribes.

THE BRITISH LIBRARY.

Some six months since, at a meeting of the above valuable institution, a great number of suggestions were thrown out with a view to induce additional subscribers to come on, and amongst the rest it was unanimously adopted, that an American, Irish, and Scotch paper should be a once subscribed for.

No one doubts that Buenos Ayres possesses the material to support a British Library commensurate with its rank as a British colony, select and intelligent as it is, should have the British Library of Buenos Ayres a very flourishing establishment, but a mild support is the most it has received.
