THE SHAKESPEARE TERCENTENARY.

In London every theatre has acknowledged the genius of that great poet which, three hundred years ago, was born in this world, and whose fame in progress of ages is the more honored and adored.

Planting the Shakespeare Oak.

The Working Men's Shakespearean Committee, in London, have arranged to plant a Shakespeare Oak in the grounds of the Woodlands and Forests, which is a noble and patriotic undertaking.

Mr. Moore said that, on behalf of the Shakespearean Committee, he had to welcome the company to what had been termed the planting of the Shakespeare Oak.

Mr. Moore then read a letter from Miss Eliza Cook, stating that she was not present at the planting of the Shakespeare Oak.
