FRENCH PACKET REVIEW

The present state of the Argentine Republic, with the exception of the Province of Buenos Ayres, peaceable and prosperous. The members of Congress from the different provinces have arrived in this city. Congress will be opened to-day by the President in person.

THE ARGENTINE CENTRAL RAILWAY.

The Buenos Ayres Great Southern Railway is progressing wonderfully. The earthworks along the first sections of the road are being rapidly completed.

The salaries in the rivers are at present killing fast: cattle are cheap, and hides and jerked beef maintain their prices.

Next English pack we expect will take home some sales of Paraguayan cotton, which the President of that country is sending to the different European markets to get valued.

completely drunk. Thanks to good luck more than anything else, the dredge at last twisted into San Fernando, and was towed down to the Boca by the Menay. We hear that this celebrated dredge will shortly proceed to Rosenda with six barges, for the purpose of cleaning the mud out of the bay.

The Menay we hear has been sent up to Mr. Marshall's establishment in Barracas to have a new bottom put to her.

part did not admit of an immediate contract, there would be no chance of obtaining the necessary capital. As to the difference of the estimates, most between the Southern and Great Central Railways, Veritas repeats, notwithstanding Sr. Santamaria's declaration, that the cost of the Southern line is at the rate of £10,000 per mile, at least to its shareholders, who can receive no dividend beyond the 7 per cent. until this rate has been paid on the whole of the published capital.

The difference therefore between the two contracts, the Central and the Southern, remains as stated, at the rate of £8,000 per mile, amounting to a difference in favor of the Central Railway on the total amount of its cost of no less than £800,000 (four millions of pounds), and yet Sr. Santamaria believes that, setting aside the question of the land, the Rosario estimate is still a more favorable one for its contractors than that of the Southern line.

the proposed railway, he would be able to form a company through his friends without requiring the aid of the great contractors or financial companies. In consequence however of the unexpected and violent opposition he has met with even on his first return to London from Buenos Ayres, in carrying out his original views, he resolved to associate with him the well known contractor, Mr. Brassey, and to entrust the formation of the Company to two of the leading financial corporations.

The Directors of these Corporations are men of the highest position and character. The Chairman of the General Credit Company, Mr. Samuel Laing, was specially selected by the English Government for the honorable but arduous post of succeeding Mr. Wilson in the complicated work of restoring to order the distracted finances of India, and accomplished the task with the greatest benefit to the country and credit to himself.

five for a burlesque in the following heading to the Royal Mail notice:

"To protect the best from the best of the best. Such is the absurd caricature taking the place of the loyal arms and evidently a parody on 'Honi soit qui mal y pense.' At the head of Turkish despatches it is usual to put the title of Tatit, but this has nothing to do with England, and the recollections of Hector Verdad regarding 'Ottoman matters' is disagreeable.

Narrow Escape of a distinguished Banker.

We regret to inform our readers that a few days since one of leading bankers as he was emerging from his town house in his carriage met with a rather serious accident. To increase the misfortune there was a lady along with him also, and a distinguished Dublin M.D. sitting behind. The horses it appears took fright at something, and ran pell mell into a hole which was in the street.

INDIANS.

Further despatches with reference to the inroad of the Indians on the Northern frontiers have been received by Government. The following is a copy—

Chayastota, 1st May, 1864. To General Palmero.

As I expected, the troops which I detailed from Fort Almagro (as mentioned in my last) have met with success. At daylight yesterday they came upon some Indian signs, and upon following up the trail closely they succeeded in coming up to the Indians and taking away from them 21 brown cattle, which are now at the disposal of the Provincial Government.

PROSPECTUS.

Within a few months, or as soon as arrangements can be made for its publication, will be issued the first number of—

"THE ARGENTINE CITIZEN," a monthly organ of Industrial Progress.

To create and foster an industrial opinion in the Argentine Republic and make it rays of the soil. Chief Baron Wolfe (revised).

The main principle on which this Magazine goes forth is founded on the belief, that the Argentine territory has abundant resources for the development of an inexhaustible mine in corn, cotton, wool, tobacco, and cattle,—a mine which is far more likely to secure its peace and prosperity than the copper of Oatman or silver of San Juan.

"To foster" such a vital principle and to make it "rays" of the purest virgin soil and the finest climate in the world (such as we live in this country) will be our successful aim. Sheep-farming, cotton cultivation, tobacco planting, cattle raising with the other industrial features of the Argentine Nation are, as causes and effect, the brothers of immigration, railways, commerce, and river navigation. The hand-made progress of a head in this is what the Argentine Nation only want to know. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, JOHN CORRIAN.

To the Editors of the Standard, Gentlemen.

I had already forwarded to you a translation of a letter of mine to the N. Argentine Republic, yesterday, which I saw Mr. Santa Maria's published in your paper of this morning on which I beg leave to make the following observations.

1st. I do not believe that any sensible man acquainted with the topography of this province, except Mr. Santa Maria, thinks that a Railroad from Buenos Ayres to Ensenada should follow any other "tracing" than the direct line from Barracas through the populous district of Quilmes.

2nd. I was mistaken in inferring from Mr. Santa Maria's former letter that he considered the sum of £6,400 for the construction of the Central Road not remunerative, as I now find his opinion to be that the Cordova contract offers to the contractors (with out any grant of land, be it understood) a more than amply-advantaged than the Great Southern.

3rd. I think it well to explain that the sum of £3,100 a mile was substituted in the new date of £2,000 (fixed by that of 1862, in order to enable the concessionaire to pay the shareholders seven per cent interest, on their advances during the construction of the line. This was the only secondary expense provided for under the guarantee.

I remain, gentlemen, your obedient servant, JOHN CORRIAN.

NOTICE TO THE BRITISH FLAG.

The Tribunal of yesterday published a notice from the British Consul post-office, signed by Mr. Parish, giving a list of post-sailings for the year 1864. The name of Messrs Verdad for every thing English, not content with the disgraceful omission of Prax Miron's speech at the inauguration, finds no
