REVIEW FOR EUROPE.

Whatever room there may be for improvement in the industrial condition of the country, our political state could not be better. Never since the time of Rivadavia has there been a ruler more beloved and respected by the Argentines...

Since the falling of the French pack, Congress, responding to the suggestion of the Government, has authorized the President to subscribe for two thousand shares of the Argentine Central Railway...

The project for establishing several lines of steamers in the rivers, is still before Congress. We have reason to believe that, notwithstanding the opposition, Messrs. Harrison and Monsilla will ultimately succeed in getting the contract...

The subscription to the shares in the Argentine Central Railway Company has continued, both here and in the provinces...

Mr. Samuel H. Phillips, the Argentine Consul for Liverpool, is at present travelling over the proposed route in order that on his return he may be able to draw up a full and complete observation on the nature and quality of the lands belonging to the Company...

Another man, who lands on our shores, is morally certain of being a man of capital in a few years, if he be persevering and earn the good-will of his employer...

A very important law has been introduced into the Senate by the Legislature, authorizing the sale of all Government lands in that province...

Mr. John Duguid, a leading merchant of this city, is another champion in the great cause of industrial advancement. He is at present in the Province of Cordova, inspecting the lands and gathering intelligence...

Business in the interior provinces is much better than we have noticed for some time. The silver mines in San Juan are at work, and, if we are to believe reports, giving enormous yields...

Nothing can be more surprising and at the same time more disgraceful, than the neglect of every successive Government, since the Independence...

Now that the republic is happily pacified, and enterprises like the Central Argentine railway are set on foot, it is impossible for the National Government to delay any longer the serious consideration of so vital an element of public tranquillity, progress, and organization as a national frontier...

Mr. Riestra's project, for the redemption of the currency, will shortly be before the Provisional Legislature. It is hardly possible that it will be passed, as in this country the only subject of speculation is the currency...

We regret to say that the arrival of emigrants for the last fortnight has been rather under the average. The reason of this we know not, since we receive in the English papers received per post packet, that the emigration to the United States keeps unabated...

recovery of 20,000 sq. leagues of territory three times as large as England of the finest pasture lands. 4th, a saving of 60 per cent in the number and expense of the present various frontier forces...

PAUNERO'S FRONTIER PROJECT

Whoever takes up the map of the republic, as designed by Argentine geographers, will find for its southern frontier Cape Horn and the ocean, the province of Buenos Ayres being proposed to extend from Arroyo Medio to Terra del Fuego...

General Paunero understands, better than any other man in Buenos Ayres, the nature and difficulties of the task he undertakes, and he believes he is capable of fulfilling his word...

The Rio Colorado rises in that part of the Andes contiguous to Mendoza, almost in direct line from Buenos Ayres, in 33 S. lat. and 69 W. longitude...

Literary of the Pacificators

The Ministers arrived at San Jose on the 13th, at 5.30 p.m., where they were received with joyful demonstrations: the authorities offered them a guard of honor, which was, however, declined...

LATEST FROM COLONIA.

The town of Colonia, which is properly in front of Buenos Ayres, is badly in want of an English hotel. As the majority of the estancias in the vicinity belong to Englishmen, the town is continually thronged with English visitors...

'arroyos' was a frequent and disagreeable feature of the journey, and when at least the British and Argentine pacificators reached the estancia Escondido, they did full justice to the 'arroyos' and 'sanas' prepared for their bodily refreshment...

At 6 p.m. on the 15th while Messrs. Thornton and Elizalde, with the others, were sipping brandy and water (they had previously taken some bottles of Martell with them), the law courier arrived with a letter from General Flores, to the effect that he would meet them at Mr. Jackson's estancia of Sta. Catalina de las Puntas del Rosario...

On the morning of the 16th Messrs. Elizalde and Thornton started for Santa Clara, leaving the other six in a complete state of exhaustion on the banks of the Rosarios, where they were treated to 'mate' in a native rancho. After several hours of a painful journey the English and Argentine Ministers reached Sta. Clara the 16th, and were received in barbaric state by the general, whose followers to the number of 2,000 were encamped on the green sward around...

On the 17th a cascade of fire occurred at the Field-of-the-Clash-of-Gold, comprising Messrs. Drummond, Saravia, Lamas, Castellanos, Dr. Bustos and Col. Perez, all looking considerably irascible, and after the usual polite recognitions on all sides, the first conference was held, General Flores afterwards inviting his guests to dinner. It would be unnecessary to enter into a serious attempt to relate the sundry jests and bad puns circulated in broken language by the diplomatists, at the festive board, being strange medley of English, French, Spanish, Portuguese and Guarani...

On the 19th the second conference took place, and Gen. Flores accepted the terms offered viz: Pres. Aguirre to remain in power; a mixed Cabinet formed; the disbandment of the Colorado army; to which Flores added that he would accept of the reform proposed by some past like Comandante General of the Campaña (which is exactly what would suit him), and the commissioners agreed to procure this concession from Pres. Aguirre...

The town of Colonia, which is properly in front of Buenos Ayres, is badly in want of an English hotel. As the majority of the estancias in the vicinity belong to Englishmen, the town is continually thronged with English visitors, many of whom cannot speak one word of Spanish. Only the other day one of the leading merchants of B. Ayres went over to see his estancia. It and speaks highly for the industrial propensities of the River Plate ladies.

Important from San Juan. We had the pleasure, yesterday, of a visit from a foreign gentleman resident in the above province, who gives most flattering accounts of things in general, and the silver mines in particular. He states that before he left, there was a quantity of 300 quintals of metal ready for smelting or refining and Major Rickard was pushing forward the work. The province is quite peaceable, and the people anxious to sow cotton. Our informant has brought some samples of San Juan cotton, very white and long staple, which are now on exhibition at the Hotel. In order to encourage the industry we intend to present him with a sufficient quantity of seed to lay down 5 squares (13 acres) which he has ready for this branch of agriculture. San Juan promises soon to attract special notice, for its mineral and agricultural resources; formerly it was noted for producing clear men, among whom may be counted the actual premier, Dr. Rawson.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The state of Barracas is now so awful that there is scarcely any communication with the city; people are obliged to exist on cocks and hens, as the butchers' yards are done up. If Jordan is a hard road to travel, the Calle Larga is the softest on this continent. The diligences as pulled along in the mud something in the same style as sleighs in Canada, wheels are now utterly useless, as the bottom of the highest diligences sits fairly on the mud, and in going down the Barracas the sensation is delightful—the coach slides down in the mud, at a speed which frightens the ladies. Some of these evenings it is expected that one of the diligences will go slap bang into M. Pongarrat's College. We understand that a meeting of Farranuncios is talked of in order to adopt measures to compel the Government to apply the Contribution Directa tax, collected in Barracas, to repairing the Calle Larga, instead of paying the Metro bill.

We hear that the protracted dispute between the Land Commission of the Southern Railway, and Mr. Langdon, respecting the price to be paid for the 8,000 yards taken by the Company, is at last about to be settled.

The mole in Montevideo is at last to be repaired; it has been in a most scandalous brack-neck state. Proposals are called for—is there no one here who wishes to make a bid. The Brazilian troops, we hear, have crossed the frontier, and several more regiments have entered Oriental territory. The Brazilian Admiral, it would seem, intends to stop three months or more in Montevideo—he calls for tenders to supply him and his ships with the best beef and mutton for the next three months.

A cargo of sewing-machines, we hear, is shortly expected in Montevideo from Rio. It is probably the first cargo of the kind ever known or heard of, and speaks highly for the industrial propensities of the River Plate ladies.
