Whoover takes up the map of this Whoover takes up the map of this republic, as designed by Argentine geographers, will find for its southern frontier Cape Horn and the occun, the province of Buenos Ayres being supposed to extend from Arroyo Medio to Terra del Fuego. But this is a piece of excusable national vanity on the part of Argentines, and European charts always place south of this republic a desert waste, held by independent Indian tribes, under the name Paragonia. In point of fact Patagonia does not form one of the Argentine provinces, neither is Buenos Ayres able to anner that country by conquest. to annex that country by conquest.
We must, therefore, for the present abulicate our claim thereto, and draw a frontier line between what really forms the republic, and the territory held by the barbarous and unsubdued abs

Nothing can be more surprising and at the same time more disgraceful, than the neglect of every successive Govern-ment, since the Independence, to describe an effective military 'cordon,' which would extend from the Cordillera which would extend from the Cordillera to the Atlantic, a work now shewn to be no less easy of execution than transcendental in its importance. It is perhaps a mistake to ascribe the misery of the inland provinces to the is peinaps a mistake to accribe the misery of the iniand provinces to the vole cause of civil wars. For fifty years the Indian isare bees suffreed to sweep the southern departments of Mendoza, S. Luis, Cordoba, and B. Ayres, destroying the pastoral interests on which the people depended. Under Rossa the asarges were indeed held somewhat in check, but since the tyrant's fall the frontier service has notably degenerated, and in the present day we find towns like Rio. Custro almost unioshabitable from the daring inreads of the Pampa bedouins. Now that the republic is happily pacificated, and enterprises like the Central Argentine railway are set on foot, it is impossible for the National Government to delay any longer the serious consideration of so tital an element of public tranquillity, progress, and organizations are consideration of so tital an element of public tranquillity, progress, and organizations as extension feature.

We had the pleasure, yesterday, of a visit from a foreign gentleman resident in the above province, who gives most fastering accounts of things in general, and the silver mines in particular. He states that before he left, there was a quantity of 300 quintals of metal ready for smelting or refining and Major Rickard was pushing forward the work. The province is quite peaceable, and the people anxious to sow cotton. Our informant has brought some samples of San Juan conton, very white and long taple, which are now on exhibition at the Holts. In order to encourage the industry we intend to present him with a sufficient quantity of seed to lay down 5 squares (18 acres) which he has ready tor this branch of griculture. EDITOR'S TABLE

The state of Barracas is now so awful that there is scarcely any communital that there is scarcely any communi-cation with the city; people are obliged to exist on cocks and hens, as the butch-er; ourts are done up. If "Jordan is a hard road to travel," the Calle Larga is the softest on this continent. The diligences are pulled along in the mud something in the same style as sleight comething in the same style as sleighs in Canada: wheels are now utterly use-less, as the bottom of the highest dili-gence sits fairly on the med, and in spring down the Baranana the sensation is delightful—the coach slides down in the myd, at a speed which frightens the ladies. Some of these evenings it is expected that one of the diligences will cook also have into. M. Poncesteria. will go slap bang into M. Pongerard's College. We understand that a meet will go slap bang into M. Pongerardi's College. We understand that a meet ing of Pareasanions is talked of in or-der to adopt measures to compel the Government to apply the Contribucion Directa tax, collected in Barracas, to repairing the Calle Large, sustead of paving the Retire hill. We hear that the protracted dispute between the Land Commission of the between the Land Co-ministed of the Southern Railway, and Mr. Langdon, respecting the price to be paid for the 8,000 yards taken by the Company, is at last about to be settled.

The mole in Montevideo is at last to be repaired; it has been in a most scan dalous break-neck state. Proposels are called for-sit there me any here when called for-is there no one here who called for—is there no one here who wishes to make a bid.

The Berzilian troops, we hear, have rossed the frontier, and several more regiments have entered Oriontal territory. The Bezzilian Admiraj, it would seem, intends to stop three months or more in Montevideo—he calls for tend-
