SUNDAY, JULY 3, 1864.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

It is in vain that we attempt to disguise our grief at the distressing condition of the once happy United States on this its Eighty-Eighth Birth-Day.

But out of courtesy to our American friends we try to shake off the gloom which the news by the last packet has created, and still clinging to the hope that better times are in store, we join in the shout of "Long live the United States, the land of Liberty, and the home of the Free."

The unhappy civil war which now for the last three years, has desolated that country, proves too clearly the frightful consequences which attend the triumph of democratic passion, the decline of political morality.

The rebellion of the South establishes beyond all manner of doubt, the unwieldy debility of democratic power. Democratic zeal and democratic energy have alike proved ineffectual in sustaining a rebellion which, we regret to say, seems to be prosecuted more for the purpose of pandering to European jealousy than for the honest assertion of liberty, where despotism was never known.

We would fain shut our eyes to the sequel of the present struggle, but the news by the last packet has dashed from us the last hope we cherished. The dismemberment of the Union seems now inevitable, and with it perishes the vain illusion of Monroe. The world is witness that what the combined powers of Europe never dared to attempt the discussions of republicans themselves have effected. Although true republicanism must sweep over the globe, the impartial philosopher will find it difficult to decide whether humanity is a loser or gainer by the result.

The enemies of America may possibly wish to see the Southern General Government to be established over the whole of the country.

We think the Government begins wrong end. Instead of paying immigrants from Liverpool about, the President will do for them from there. There are none read in the editor's pens. His withdrawal

It is to be hoped that passion has at last done its worst, and that men will now listen to reason. The inexorable jealousies of the South have brought mourning into every family in that region. The preeminent refusal of all concessions by the North has razed towns and ruined cities.

Precious to the commencement of this lamentable struggle, the footholds of Europe in America were extremely slender. The possessions of Russia were confined to the frigid zone; British sway in Canada was so very precarious that the Home Government almost ceased to have any influence from Labrador to the Pacific.

But since the memorable battle of Bull's Run what a change has come over every inch of America! Some republics have ceased to exist, and in their ruins either colonial governments or constitutional monarchies have been established. Canada is now more loyal than ever; Brazil is firmer than before; Cuba is so attached to Spain that the guerillas have been exterminated. The West Indian Islands are quiet, Santo Domingo is now a Spanish possession, and Peru has lost the only jewel she possessed.

Verily, the war in the United States has not been a struggle between the North and the South, but a fight between Europe and America, at least if we are to judge by the results. America, ye who still cling to the fixed principles of the immortal Washington, and the Government which he established, receive our sympathies on this sad 4th of July. Hark! the inspired advice of the Father of your country been attended to, who can put limit upon what the United States would have been this day? But enough, we seize the present opportunity of reminding our readers that an appeal has been made upon their charity to assist the Board of Sanitary Commission; let us all join with our American friends in helping to alleviate their many sorrows. Every purse, we feel sure, will be open, every hand ready, to share in so pious, so charitable, a labour; we must all, indeed, no matter to what nation we belong, be very oblivious of the past, if we forget the generosity of America in the days of her prosperity.

his paper money project, simply because the Government opposes it. We cannot say that we approve altogether of such extreme political sensibility; however, Sor Kleista has now thrown the onus on the Government, and if our Provincial Finance Minister allow the session to close without introducing some measure to redeem the currency he will be obliged to resign, in the same manner as his priscine colleague.

The Municipality of Zarate has sent fifty thousand dollars to the Bank, to be set apart for building public schools in that thriving little town. This speaks well for the public mind of Zarate, and reflects the highest credit on our active friend Don Manuel José de J. Torres, the president of that body.

We trust that the provincial Government will put another fifty thousand to the above sum, so that a decent building can be erected for so desirable a purpose.

A friend of ours has called to say that he has a square league of land adjoining Mr. Fair's estancia in the Banda Oriental, which has a good brick estancia house on it, seven hundred cattle and a few thousand fine sheep. The place will be sold at a dead bargain, as the new owner, who has inherited the place, prefers residing in the city to becoming an Oriental sheep farmer. We have a map of the land at our office.

It was ransomed through the town yesterday that a "capataz" of the Southern Railway had evaporated with one hundred thousand dollars, which he had received at the office to pay the men. We don't know what truth there is in the report.

The Argentine boilers, up to the present, Mr. Carulla's son comes out, that we may procure a good steamboat boiler as our friends in Paraguay, but the last one made has proved a failure. The in-Feliz Colon burst her boilers the other day, and had to be towed into one of the river ports. We have not heard whether the accident was so disastrous as that of the "Telegraph," which poor Sambo so melodiously narrates in the popular song of "Oh Susannah, don't you cry for me."

Mr. Marshall, in Barracas, is building another steamer, the engine and boilers out from England. She is intended for the Parana trade, and will be a little smaller than the Eza.

The diligences from the country towns in the South are now daily when they get near the Barracas-bridge, hire bullocks, as the roads are so bad that the horses are no use. For the last month no diligences, except Rummel's celebrated waggon, has come into town, drawn by horses. The Boca Raton is now even worse than the Callo Larga in Barracas. A petition has been sent into the Government, praying that the former be at once paved.

A first class English boarding-house, we hear, will shortly be started in one of our fashionable streets. We hope it will be well supported.

The French mail closes on Monday, at 12 o'clock. Our extra numbers are delivered to subscribers this morning. A new native company, for the construction of steam engines in this harbour, is being formed. Some of our Argentine friends, it appears, have taken the hint from Messrs. Peto and Betts, who are sending out a whole squadron of steam lighters; perhaps, we wonder what detains these steam-tugs; more than a fortnight ago they were in Pernambuco.

The news from Bragado, strange to say, is not as good as could be expected. Farmers assure us that the crops in that partido now are not so good as last summer; whilst an Irish estanciaero, from the Fortin de Arco, positively asserts that the sheep farmers are now complaining of having too much grass, as it injures the sheep's hoofs.

The new traction engine, "El Bucy," is at last on route for Buenos Ayres. It was shipped on board the Liverpool steamer which left on the 1st of June.

The view of the inauguration of the Southern Railway, in the "Illustrated London News" is the most miserable attempt we have ever beheld. We wonder our colleagues pride so monstrously upon an attempt.

The Paraguari leaves this morning for Asunción. Our friend in Asunción will learn, with joy, that prices for the Aragusany tobacco are very firm, and that there is every prospect an export demand will spring up, as our own produce is nearly exhausted.

Organization of Public Credit

Just 12 months ago the Argentine Congress, after long and stormy debates sanctioned a law with the above title. Since then the public has waited with anxiety for the National Executive to put in force a measure so imperatively demanded by the private interests of many persons and by the credit itself of the Argentine Government.

By taking to a foreign market the Bonds of the Nat. Government, we shall not only give a patent proof of the faithful fulfilment of our promises and the prosperous condition of the country, but moreover create a source of riches for any future emergency in monetary affairs.

In the River Plate interest always ranges so high, as almost to check mercantile transactions. We read in the banking circles that money is worth 12 to 15 per cent per annum. How then can we expect capitalists to invest in Public Funds, which only give 6 per cent?

In London and the other great monetary capitals of Europe interest, in normal times, seldom touches 6 per cent the rate payable on our Bonds, which if negotiated would rule at par or command a premium of 1 or 2 per cent, like those of Brazil or Chile with interest of 3 and 4 per cent.

The objection, that this would put us under English control, is hardly deserving notice, betraying an ignorance of the history of passing events. All the nations of Europe and S. American republics negotiate their public debts in London, without having up to the present caused any complication with the British Government, or affording a pretext for British aggression.

The Minister of Finance is bound to put in force Article 28. It is formally passed into law—that is sufficient. Be it noted that when the bill was laid before Congress it had the full approval of the whole Cabinet, of which now falls the responsibility of the financial department in this particular.

The Government has given to its creditors Bonds which up to the present are selling under half their expressed value. On whom lies the charge of fraud? The cabinet is a collective body and its members are equally implicated. If the Minister of Finance is opposed to the measure which his predecessor carried into law, let him throw down his portfolio and save his colleagues from the just indignation of the people.

Let President Mitre take into account how much the public interests are compromised by the fault of one of his ministers. Let him exert his energies towards the fulfilment of a compromise, which he cannot abandon without incurring the gravest censures of an upright public opinion.

ABANDONED LOBBERY. On Friday night the store of Mr. Francis Mahon, Paseo Julio, was broken into. It was no trace of the burglars. This is the old story, but there are some suspicious circumstances calling for investigation; if our authorities seriously think it ever worth while to investigate such matters.

The store in question is two or three doors from the Capitania del Puerto, where a guard is mounted day and night. People on the bench are little scrupulous in saying that it is impossible the doors could be broken open without the knowledge of the sentinel, unless indeed that functionary were so inept as to allow the robbers to cut off his nose without knowing it until he appeared on parade next morning.

Even were he not in profound slumber it is hard to think that the wrenching of locks, and breaking open of doors, at his very ear, did not elicit any attention. Of course we entirely say aside the Police Department, that body having fallen into such abeyance as to be esteemed a perfect lump.

Some months ago the store of Corti Riva adjoining the Capitania was broken into, and several articles including chairs' diamonds were stolen. The thieves were of course never found, but it was rumored that they were not very distant from the scene of outrage. It is an unlucky coincidence that such burglaries should happen so frequently alongside a barrack, as the guardians of public order will incur rather a suspicious reputation.

We are happy to learn that the burglars found hiding in Mr. Mahon's store, the till having been emptied the night before by its prudent owner, and they did not take the trouble to carry any merchandise. Nevertheless the outrage is the same, and if Mr. Mahon had been robbed of all in the world, he must look in vain for satisfaction. Mr. Mahon is an old resident and entitled to some protection from the country; we insist on a rigorous enquiry.

THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

The proceedings of the courts in this country are seldom or never published, and unhappily society is deprived of one of its chief safeguards against judicial tyranny or corruption. In England not only all the high courts of Justice, but even the smallest matters brought before a rural justice of peace, are exposed naked to the world, nor have we reason to blush for such healthy ventilation.

In an obscure column of the most obscure of our daily papers we find the judicial list, which seldom catches the eye of any reader, but which affords room for gloomy reflection.

Miss Jane Young is summoned as witness for the trial of Juan Manuel Lopez, who murdered Mrs. Isabella Young in the district of Quilmes. Don Isidoro Cordoba, (residence not known) is summoned to give evidence against Fortunio Hernandez, charged with the murder of Gerónimo Cayetano, in the district of Vecino, last December. Seven months have elapsed, but the trial will be prolonged till next year.

Manuel Perez is summoned for the third time to deliver himself up to arrest in the prison of San Nicolas for the charge of murdering Don Teodoro Corvalan. (Date not mentioned). It is not at all likely an assassin will come with a rope around his neck begging to be hanged, yet this is the formula.

Agustín Toledo, another fugitive, is petitioned to answer for the murder of Miguel Posadas, (no date), at San Nicolas. He is probably roaming about the camps.

Jose Alvarado is summoned for cattle-stealing at San Nicolas, but he has despised the first summons he lastly means to attend.

Roman Moreno is cited for stabbing and wounding at San Nicolas. No attendance to first and second summons. Agustín Gomez is notified that in his absence he has been found guilty of cattle-stealing, along with José Bercego. (Date not mentioned). It is confirmed, but we know not what it is, nor does Sor Gomez much care.

ROSARIO MAILS.

SALTA HAS FALLEN!!! We have received the "Perro-carril" to the last. The mails from Rosario and Tucuman arrived in Rosario on Thursday night, with dates from the first place to June 4th. Governors Uruburu (1 and 2), with their numerous relatives, the Federal garrison under Alfaro, and all that fell, were ejected by Bedoya (Pres. of Legislature) who marched into Salta on the 3rd, at the head of 4,000 men, allowing the enemy quietly to retire. This is exactly what we predicted, and peace is now restored, as Bedoya announces in a despatch to the Governor of Jujuy.

The National Government is bound to take Don Alfaro to task for supporting the Uruburu coup d'etat, and concealing those mendacious despatches about his having annihilated Bedoya's army.

There is no news from Tucuman or the other provinces. The Chilean mail has not arrived, and it might be premature to celebrate the recovery of the Rio Grande, as we have no news yet that Peru has made the slightest effort to fight the plucky little Spanish garrison of 1000 men, although the latter are 4000 leagues from home or reinforcements.

The collections for the Cordoba rail-way continue actively. The new paper, "El Rosario," has not yet come out; it is not wanted, and we hope may prove an abortion. A great Peruvian meeting will take place in the Plaza of Rosario on the 9th inst.

GREAT NEWS FROM CHILDEA.

Messrs. Duguid and Boyd suffered the most unheard-of hardships on the road. When starting from Rosario they had agreed for a private carriage, but were obliged to take the diligence owing to want of horses. At the post-houses they could get nothing to eat, but had luckily a loaf of bread in their luggage. One of the more impatient passengers took out a revolver, at a post-house, and threatened to shoot—a sheep—in case the owner persisted in starving him. Our countrymen had to sleep on bare bricks. On their return the diligence stuck fast, with 15 passengers and a cart with produce annexed; the passengers were forced to walk for two days and a night, the peons remaining behind with the cart. Some of the latter were 36 hours without food. The roads are not bad, but there is a total want of horses, and great complaints are made respecting the post-house arrangements.

Our countrymen, on arrival yesterday, were cordially welcomed by crowds of friends; they look much improved after their journey. According to their glowing accounts of Cordoba, that province is able to keep not one but two railways in constant work.

LUISA MILLER.

The beautiful and tragic romance of Schiller, set to music by the great master Verdi, was performed at Colón theatre on Friday night. As it is ten years since its last performance in B. Ayres it enjoyed almost the novelty of a new opera, yet the audience was miserably thin, the audience hardly numbering 500, perhaps owing to the unfavorable weather.

The overture was well played, the music partaking of a strange wildness, quick in keeping with the story.

Mme. Mollo was the graceful heroine, the village belle enamored of the Count's son (Leini), and ably sustained the whole rendering of the opera which may be said to fall entirely on the prima donna's shoulders. The chorus "Ti desta" was sung in excellent style. The affectionate scene "A la depression" between the lovers was a very charming duet. Walter (Luiza's father) sang "sacra la sacra" with great feeling. As usual "the course of true love never does run smooth" and Rodolfo's father seeks to marry him to the Duchess, when he apprizes him of the crime of his hand in the peasant's cabin.

Act II brings the terrible interview between the traitor Wurm and Luiza, in which the latter learns that the Count has condoned her father's crime, unless she renounce Rodolfo and pretend affection for Wurm. Mollo's acting of the awful sacrifice was perfection itself. Her prayer "Tu puniti" was most sweetly sung. Scene III was omitted, the vocalist performing the part of Duchess being quite unequal to the role. Celestino played the Count admirably. Leini gave the solo "mi tradisti" testefully.

Act III was also short of the last scene, but the ensuing duet between Walter and Mollo made amends, and was loudly applauded. Rodolfo meets Luiza just as he is about to espouse the Duchess, and believing her false poisons both himself and Luiza. The latter sings "piang piang" which is the gem of the opera, and the lovers expire in each other's arms just as the guilty Count arrives to see the defeat of all his ambition, and Luiza's father falls a victim to his grief.

The opera is well compared to the plot, there being few good songs and we hardly think it will prove a favorite with our public.

OLDEN BEEF.

We have been requested to mention some circumstances respecting the dried beef thro' we overboard at Liverpool in a pirated state. Sor Olden states that his first despatch of beef this year from the River Plate for Liverpool was on the 7th May per steamer Ana, the rest following per Kepler. It is clear, therefore, that we cannot have account of such shipments before the month of August. It seems, however, that a certain Sor Bialen exports fresh beef (not dried) from Montevideo, and he has lately taken the liberty (says our informant) to export to Rio Janeiro some lots under the title Olden beef. It seems the beef in question was from the same house, and hence possibly the mistake. Sor Olden sold his last shipments to Messrs. Smyth Bros. of this place, which was remitted as above. His former shipments were invariably by sailing vessels, so that it is impossible the beef in question could be genuine Olden preparation.

The Louvre Tubed-Hoist.

The proprietor of the Grand Hotel du Louvre has taken it into his head to start a table d'hôte, on the principle that what is good for Parisians must be so for Genoese. M. Louis began on Friday, but only five attended, and it will possibly require some weeks or months to bring our citizens into this more amiable and comfortable manner of performing the great work of the day-dinner.

The saloon, on the night, is nicely fitted up and lighted, and the table arrangements faultless. Nothing could be better than the bill of fare served up, and the wines were first-rate.

Every day at five o'clock (precisely) a capital dinner may here be obtained, and this is a decided improvement, for heretofore in B. Ayres sufficient importance was not attached to dinner.

Every day at five o'clock (precisely) a capital dinner may here be obtained, and this is a decided improvement, for heretofore in B. Ayres sufficient importance was not attached to dinner.

Mr. Louis has introduced a notable improvement, and in animating him to persevere in his intention we would suggest, for a motto over the saloon-door "mens cœna recta."

STOP THREE 500 TOWARD

On last Tuesday night some ruffian cut off one of the ears and shaved the tail and mane of a horse belonging to Mr. Archy Craig, cartel 3, partido Carmen de Arco.

The above reward will be given on discovery, not of the horse, but of the miscreant.

STEAMER NEWS

Fairy leaves Montevideo every Tuesday for Buenos Ayres, with passengers for the ports of Patana and Uruguay.

Fairy and Era arrive in Buenos Ayres—the former from the Paraná, the latter from the Uruguay—every Sunday morning.

Fairy proceeds to Montevideo every Sunday afternoon, with passengers from the ports of both rivers.

Diligence in connection with these steamers for these towns of the interior provinces, and those of the province of Entre Rios.

NORTHERN RAILWAY

The engineers are at present surveying the proposed line of extension, from San Fernando to Zarate.

BANK FINES

Notice is given that Four Millions, depreciated currency, will be burned on Tuesday, 6th inst, at 1 p. m.

CORRENTS

We have dates to the 28th ult. The papers are full of Spain and Peru—not a word about local or national interests.

We learn privately that the French hair-dresser is buying all the cotton in the place. Mr. Ingully, agent of Baron Maus, has come down to General. Mr. Robert Billington is to come on a visit to Paraguay.

NEW LAWYER

The gentleman admitted on Friday is called Malaver. As lawyers should be "clear-sighted" the name is unpropitious. Better for him to change the first letter and make it Malver.

Don Tomas Rebolvo was buried yesterday. The service for San Yurriaga takes place to-morrow, at Sto. Domingo.

PERUVIAN MEETING

The shareholders have listed Colon Theatre for to-day's meeting, so the whole thing is extinguished. Lists will be left at the four native printing-offices for signatures to the petition to Congress.

SR. BELBAO

This gentleman declares he is not editor of the (unknown) paper "America." Who cares!

CONGRESS

The National Deputies have thrown out the British claims (1845) by a majority of ones the voting was 21 to 20. The Senate met yesterday, and Sr. Rojo presented a minute to be sent to the Nat. Executive, inquiring for all information respecting the status of the frontier, and the probable cost of Gen. Lamero's scheme.

The depreciation of paper money is so steady that people are again beginning to be alarmed. If there was any revolution going on, or the prospect of any new emissions being made, we could better understand it; but on the contrary, peace reigns throughout, and so far from any new emissions, four millions of the currency are to be burned on Monday.

It is said on the Bolta that the Government scheme for redeeming the paper money which was introduced last session with its consequent of Sr. Rivera withdrawing his scheme, now be passed; but the general opinion amongst merchants is that the Government plan, without a loan being effected is totally useless.

People are now beginning to open their eyes to the fact, that in Montevideo they are far ahead of us in monetary matters. Had we been struggling with a revolution, like the Montevideo Government, for the last year and a quarter, what would be the price of ounces? We venture to say, that we could better understand it; but on the contrary, peace reigns throughout, and so far from any new emissions, four millions of the currency are to be burned on Monday.
