POWEIGN AMATEUR RACING

(rescissa regetior assurgit)
During the last few days an adver-V. During the list few days an advertisement appeared in our columns, to the effect that it was proposed to revive the old. English racing club, and that all friends were invited to attend on Tuesday evening at the Cafe del Progresso. It is so difficult to get up a meeting in our limited society that no one of the most sanguine could have attituded the rand practical results. one of the most sanguine could have auticipated the grand practical results which we have the pleasure to report. Although the meeting was in some manner private, and for obvious reasons we mention no names, we cannot consider the meeting that the contraction of the contraction soot we mention no names, we cannot allow it to pass without apprising the British public of the splendid revival of the Club, and promising future of our great national sport.

At 8 o'clock there were 20 gentlemen assembled, among whom we were glad to note some of our oldest aportamen and several Irish estancieros who came to annot themselves in the turfimen and several Irish estancieros who came to earol themselves in the turfloving fraternity. All were ovidently in earnest, and attended with the fixed resolve to lead their energy, money and horses, as far as might be requisite. The business was accordingly begun, without any flourish of trumpets, and after a few dry practical remarks from the chairmen about the ability of the chairmen.

The bushness was accordingly begun, without any flourish of trumpets, and after a few dry practical remarks from the chairman about the object of the meeting some amendments were voted to the former Rules with the purpose of zemoving certain barriers which were found inconvenient as preventing a good attendance of horres.

For instance the clause which forbade native owners from lending their racers, and the horres possessed by English evidents were cometimes for. The table in question proves incontestibly that the paper money is every day becoming less current.

In December, 1854, there were two hundred and eleven millions of paper money enitted, the whole of which, with the exception of two hundred and fifty thousand oblars in the vaults of the bank, was in actual circulation. Gold was then 324 paper dollars per ounce.

Five years later, or that is to say, in December, 1859, there were two hundred and eighty-four millions emitted, two thirds of which, that is to say, one hundred and eighty-tree millions, were in actual circulation, and although there was twenty-eight millions of paper money less in circulation than in December, 1859, gold had gone up in value, and the ounce was worth 340 dolls. SHIPWRECK.

SHIPWRECK.

On Sature's the 9th inst, at 4:30 p. m., the pilot outter 'Gabiosa' arrived at Montevideo, with the mate and two of the crew of the Brazilian trig' Maria das Doves, which vessel ran on the English Bank whilst on her. voyage from Parnaguis to that port. She had on board a thousand odd tercios of yerbs, to the consignment of Mears. Mauncis, Llamas & Co.

From the data we have been able to collect, it appears that the vessel had been becalmed, and during a trick go, by the force of the strong ourcrest, she grounded on the bank. The Captain and crew worked hard to endeavor to get the vessel off, but a strong gale from the Sauth coming on, they were from the Sauth coming on, they were form the Sauth coming on, they were from the Sauth coming on, they were to get the vessel off, but a strong gale from the Sauth coming on, they were from the Sauth coming on the sauth coming on the sauth coming of the

THE COLONIZATION SCHEME.

God intentions are often frustrated by want of experience, and the great immigration scleime presented by Deputy Granel and others has been generally applauded as a move in the right direction, although its details are so inaccurate as to render it willolly impracticable. A writter in the 'Nacion Argentina' was the first to attack its reach formation and General Mires Argentina was the next to attack its crude formation, and General Mitte has the credit of nicknaming it a "legist lative purchers," comprehending in one enactment seven distinct laws—a public lean, an immigration, navigation, custom-house, frontier, colonisation, and land-cession act. To our idea this is not its capital defect, but the want of proper means for realizing so expensive an undertaking. The emission of two millions dollars in Bonds at 76, would only give £300,000, and yet its proposed with this triding sum to bring out 5,000 immigrants from Germany or Irchand, to purchase two river steamboats, to supply the immigrants with houses, farming utensils, seed, animals, and provisions for 12 months, bondes paying for the quartering of the sum of the sum of the control of
