REVIEW FOR THE BRITISH PACKET.

Owing to the French packet having sailed a week before her usual time, in order to make some repairs in Rio Janeiro, our review for home readers embraces three weeks instead of a fortnight.

The extension of the Northern Railway to Zarate is also a subject of importance, and we learn upon the very best authority that the Government of Buenos Ayres will grant a guarantee of 7 per cent on the capital necessary for such extension.

The subscription to the stock of the Argentine Central Railway still continues. The largest stockholder in the country is General Uruqui, of Entre Rios, who, true to his former promise, subscribed for one thousand shares, and forwarded to Mr. Armstrong, the representative of the company...

Probably one of the most important projects, is that of an English Bank in Cordoba, capital £200,000, with right to emit convertible bank bills for a million sterling.

STATE OF THE ARGENTINE PROVINCES.

(From the Ferro-carri.)

We are happy to be able to communicate our review with the gratifying intelligence that the peace and tranquillity of this beautiful country are undisturbed, and that day by day its progress is becoming more marked and palpable.

been sent before the legislature, where it is generally believed it will meet with little opposition. There is positively nothing more wanted in the provinces than the circulating medium.

The arrival of Mr. Wheelwright and the first vessel loaded with wool for the Great Central, have filled the people with enthusiasm.

But we are feeling the effects of the great change that the world is sure to operate in, in other ways than the enthusiasm of the town.

People from England, from the United States, from Buenos Ayres and the Uruguay Republics, are pouring into the country; not poor immigrants, but men of capital, to purchase and rent lands in the province.

The National Government has, by decree, established an Immigration Committee in Rosario, and which was announced in a former review, it had determined on doing.

This is of course preparatory to immigration schemes on a grand scale, as the Railway Company must justify the consideration of the large tract of land that has passed into their hands, as a very important auxiliary to the opening of the Rosario and Cordoba road.

The secretary is William Perkins Esq. and the treasurer D. Pedro Lasker.

The electric spark seemed to have pervaded all classes of society, and poor women held their children over the heads of the crowd to enable them to get a glimpse of the personage who brings prosperity and peace to the provinces of the Argentine Republic.

Another work which embraces a much wider range, written by our distinguished friend Thomas J. Hutchison Esq., H. B. M. Consul in Rosario, is about to be published in London.

The mining interests in San Juan are being developed every day, by the mail we receive fresh news that look beyond any doubt the wonderful richness of the great mining district of the Andes.

Our excellent Home Secretary, Dr. Rawson, does not seem to have made up his mind as yet in reference to the Exhibition proposed by the editor of this paper, and which would so materially aid the development of our infant industry, and prove to the European world the inexhaustible resources of the Argentine Republic.

and Zarate, the one member for Santa Fe and the other for Cordoba. The principal points in this project are, that the loan which is required for two millions of dollars for the carrying out of the idea, and secondly, the scheme of bringing out one thousand families of immigrants to colonize the new line of frontier on the Rio Negro at the South, and the Rio Vermejo at the North; both lines to be protected by adequate forces of troops adapted to the frontier service.

The project is bold, and if carried out, will completely settle the Indian question in this country. The province of Santa Fe, it is still showing a bright example to the rest of the Republic.

On Sunday morning a grand breakfast was given on board the Fairy, over 80 persons being invited. We have not heard how it went off, but hope some one of the guests will favor us with a report.

Fresh revelations come out every day respecting the fugitive Herr Hermannsdorfer, alias Doctor John Henry Bull. He has "stuck" Mr. Eastman for 5000 dollars in surgical instruments and Messrs. Cranwell and Murray in a smaller sum: the latter were entirely duped by his coming the "religious dodge."

By notice in another column it will be seen that the Cricket Club holds a meeting on Wednesday evening. We understand they have secured a new and suitable cricket ground near Palermo station, rented from the Municipality of Heliopolis.

We learn that another prima donna has arrived and will shortly make her debut in Colón theatre. It is rumored that Mme. Boli intends leaving us: she shall be very sorry to lose her.

Mr. Wheelwright has fixed his permanent residence at Rosario, and will personally superintend the active prosecution of the Central Argentine Railway.

The 'Nation' reports a woman residing in Calle E. Unidos to have thrown herself into a well on last Friday. She was taken out alive but much bruised, and declared as a motive that "she was tired of life."

It is amusing how all our colleagues erroneously announced Mr. Wheelwright's departure on Sunday, when they might have read in this paper that he had gone last week. But the 'Nation' more than compensates for such oversight, by treating us to a sound, logical article on European civilization and its influence, &c. &c.

Contrary to expectation, Sunday turned out a very fine day, and as the preparations for Mr. Wells' ascent attracted crowds of pleasure-seekers, the Plaza soon presented an animated appearance. The work of inflating the balloon with heated air was begun at noon, and occupied nearly three hours.

The police let off a number of rockets as a notice to the citizens that the ascent about to take place; and by two o'clock there were assembled over 10,000 persons, the Cabildo, Municipality, and Cathedral front being lined with fashionable ladies and gentlemen.

EDITION TABLE.

The Provincial Chamber of Deputies is still busy with the law of elections; it is likely the bill will pass through this and the higher Chamber before the close of the year.

Some four years ago a fellow (we believe French) who kept a money-changing office and coffee house on the beach, was detected doing a little business in the forger's line, and concluding false notes. Being tried and convicted, he was sentenced to six years imprisonment.

The Criminal Judge, Dr. Langenhemmer, hearing of this, proceeded in person accompanied by Comissary Pacheco to the criminal's house, and there found him behind the counter: he arrested him and lodged him in prison. On enquiry, the second Alcalde sought to deny all knowledge of the matter; the clerk of the guard, however, confessed that the man used to enjoy a free exit during the past seven months, but he thought it had been ordered. The ascension is that the Alcalde disappeared, and the forger has been put up to serve out the two remaining years of his apprenticeship.

THE RAILWAYS OF B. AYRES.

The Great Southern, in spite of bad weather, progresses rapidly. There are 40 kilometers (over 20 miles) of earthworks concluded, including four miles beyond the town of San Vicente, and two miles of the Zamora section laid with rails.

The Western prolongation to Zarate is before the Chambers, and will, no doubt, pass. The contractors to San Fernando, Messrs. Alvarado & Sons, are selling off; it seems the prolongation contract will be taken by another firm.

The traction engine El Bary, is not yet ready for its trial trip, and has lately been landed at Barracas. The general opinion is, that it will prove unsuitable for our soft, marshy roads.

GREAT NEWS FROM ROSARIO.

Arrival of Mr. Wheelwright.

On Thursday morning the Fairy came in sight with bunting, and the glad news ran like lightning that Mr. Wheelwright was aboard.

Numbers of small boats put out in the direction, and in half an hour Mr. Wells and his companion landed, proceeding at once to the Capitania, thence to salute the admiral's public.

There was an inquiry about the boy who had just made so perilous a journey, and the report got wind that he was waiting in the Café del Plata. Thousands of people went to see him, in the evening, and the Café did a splendid business, as we are informed.

When asked how he liked his excursion, he declared that he was taken un-awares, and had to hold on, like grim death, to a rope half an inch thick, but the journey was so new and pleasant, he has no objection to going up again.

It appears the red boy had nothing to do with the Café del Plata, and is a Swedish sailor youth who came here with Mr. Wells, and has his intention likely, and the Café affair seemed a clever ruse. Many say that he did not go up by accident, but by pre-arrangement, to prevent any possible explosion.

Be it as it may we feel bound to render a tribute to the daring and sang-froid of both excursionists, and we hope the Municipality will make no difficulty in paying Mr. Wells.

PRISONERS AND GOBLERS.

The public is ignorant of many abuses existing in our prison regulations as they apply by the following case. It is at the same time a cheering reflection, that the Criminal Judge is active and inflexible in seeing the sentence of the law carried out.

Some four years ago a fellow (we believe French) who kept a money-changing office and coffee house on the beach, was detected doing a little business in the forger's line, and concluding false notes. Being tried and convicted, he was sentenced to six years imprisonment.

When we remember the recent escape of four murderers from prison, we feel compelled to give our warmest wishes, the reader may get an accurate idea of the value of our city prison and the convenience of abolishing capital punishment as to give the wretches a chance of returning to his paraiso.
