EDITOR'S TABLE

The city is again plunged in mud. Yesterday it was impossible for ladies to walk in the streets. The project for cleaning the sidewalks, which was sent in to the Municipality, has been thrown out, the Committee reporting that so long as the temale citizens use miriniques, no such project is necessary.

On Sunday there was another meeting of the Circulo Literario, and a rather stormy discussion ensued as to the duties of the porter, and the right of members to send him with messages. Mr. Varela, of the 'Tribuna,' and Mr. Williams, of the 'River Plate Magazine, attended and offered some suggestions. We hear that Mr. Rom, of the Bolsa, will give some lectures on political economy.

The news from Montovideo is that Flores and Moreno have at last had a fight - neither party beaten - Flores ran away, at least so the Montevidean. papers say. No killed or wounded. President Aguirre had at last returned to Montevideo, and the belief is that terms will be finally concluded.

We regret to record the murder of another milkman, in the Plaza Once de Setiembre. The murdered man had only 30 dollars about him, of which he was robbed. The assessio, as usual, got away.

A gentleman returning from the opera last Friday night had a very narrow escape from the knife of some drunken villain in Calle Artes. The police are getting worse and worse each day

The new station which the Western Railway is building in the Plaza Once de Setiembre will be the most splendid thing in town. It will occupy a whole square and will be finished on English style. This station will be the head office of the Company. A splendid new car has come out for the use of the Prosident and Government. It will be put on the line on opening of the road to Mercedes. The road will shortly be finished to Mercedes, as the rails are being laid and the earthworks finished, but the people in Mercedes have not the remotest idea where the station is to be, and indeed the greatest speculation is going on as to the future site.

THE CALVETS LIBES

Thefe seems to be but one opinion respecting the disgraceful letter of Major Calvete. Indeed, it is difficult to imagine how the editor in question could forget the dignity of the press, and to allow the publication of such threats as 'to horsewhip the crooked eyed senator,' especially since the editor of the 'Pueblo' is a brother-member of Congress with the aggricved party.

The matter has caused considerable noise, and occupied the attention of the National Senate for some time. It is not yet concluded, and our legislators are diverted from more serious subjects, to decide a question of puretilio. The debate on Saturday brought out some brilliant orations from the Prime Minister and Senator Frias, the former declaring that the offence in question came under no law or tribunal in the land, and the latter rightly insisting on some method of punish

In our idea nothing is simpler than for President Mitre to cashier the military bully, without any foolish formalities; or for Congress to summon him to the bar of the House, and condennahim to make an apology on his knees or go to prison till the close of the session. In England it would not take so many minutes, as it does here weeks, to settle the matter. The Committee of the Senate, however, thought fit to throw out the bill for Calvete's accusation, and when we remember that the Senator aggrieved is proprietor of a paper tor aggrieved is proprietor of a paper (El Nacional) which has been at times very scurrilous it is easy to understand why Sor Pidero finds little sympathy.

Nevertheless, the dignity of Congress the dignity of Congress should be vindicated, [irrespective of Sor Pinero and his antecedents. The Sor There and his antecedents. The Ministers plead "the liberty of the Press," forgetful that Sor Calvete and the Pueblo newspaper have inflicted a serious injury on our prerogative, and that our real interests demand a severe chastisement for such an outrage on public decency.

NEWS FROM PERU.

NEWS FROM PERU.

The couriers have at length succeeded in crossing the Andes, and the last mail bridgs dates from Valparaise up to June 28th, with news from Peru three weeks later than via England. The Peruvians, after their patriotic attempts to poison the Spanish Minister on board the pucket, and assassinate him at Panama, anticipated the vengeance of Admiral Pinzon, and Callao was in a state of great alarm. The Government of Peru has not made the least step towards grappling with the invaders, and the only warlike symptom is the arrival of 100 Chilian volunteers at Callao. Most absurd stories are circulated about Pinzon's forces being attacked with sourcy, and their not knowing the use of rifles. The Spanish vessels find no d'fliculty in procuring provisions all along the west coast, and ulthough their crews at present hardly make 1,000 men, the Peruvians take good care not to come within cannon-shot.

The Government of Ecuador refuses all compility with be heard?

The Government of Ecuador refuses all complicity with the heroes of Talumbo, but offers its friendly offices to intercede with the offended Spanish nation. In Bolivia all the National intercede with the offended Spanish nation. In Bolivia all the National Guards have been called out for active service, it is not clear however whether to redeem the guano mounds of Peru or to declare war with Chile for those of Mejillones. The republic of Chile is the only one determined to make common cause with Peru, but if there be any intention to fight the Spaniards, 100 volunteers will be a poor assistance. The French Consul at Panama has written to the Governor, accusing him

THEATRICAL OVATION.

MADAME BRIOL'S BENEFIT.

Our opera-house has never appeared to greater advantage than on Friday night. In spite of the weather, the house was very full, and the boxes presented quite a galaxy of beauty and fashion. Norma was well played and sung, and the applause and enthusiasm which followed every scene inspired Madame Briol with unprecedented talent and power. On former occasions she divided the palm with her charming rival Mollo, but now she bore it off unrival Mollo, but now she bore it off un-disputed. Yet the other prima don a could not have been excelled in Adelgisa, and the performance on the whole was one of the best witnessed for a long time. In fact some Englishmen recently arrived were quite surprised, no less at the brilliant spectacle of the audience, than the superior rendering of this fine

After the first act Madame Briol sang the waltz said to be composed for her by Sig. Nametti, but the singing was much superior to the composition, much superior to the composition, which was only a parody on the Baccio. It was, however, encored, and Signor Nametti called on the stage to receive a public acknowledgment. After the third act, the fair artiste came forward dressed as Marta, and sang "The flast Rose of Summer" in English with such exquisite taste that it received as an

The ovation of Friday night was the grandest ever seen in Butenes Ayres, and much more practical than the noisy Peruvian meetings. Besides a number of handsome wreaths and bouquets, the following valuable presents were given to Mme. Prof.

MORTHWARD RO!

JOINT PURCHASE OF LAND The letter in the 'Standard' of July 27th, signed 'Subscriber,' is sufficient ovidence of the fact that many at present routing land would purchase if they knew or could find others to join in buying a tract with the intent of dividing it immediately afterwards. What could be easily accomplished by six or eight united would be an impossibility to one or two: if they not only joined to purchase, but to assist each joined to purchase, but to other in the management of other in the management of their esta-blishments, they would, in a great mea sure, be independent of peons and would save many dollars often foolishly spent. The art is not in gailing or making the money—anv fool can do that: the great secret is in knowing how to avoid spending what you have gained.

This want of union is guilty of many sins—among others, that of forcing many with two of three hundred thou-sand dollars in the bank, to remain te-

In my opinion, the most efficient plan would be the following: a land agent having a tract of, say five leagues, for sale, advertises that he can not sell it in fractions but will receive offers for any fraction of it with a view to finding a sufficient number to buy to finding a sufficient number to buy the tract; A, in answer to this advertisement, applies for two leagues, B. for one league, C. for half a league, and so on until the required number is complete, of which the agent informs the applicants; they then meet, buy the land conditionally, appoint one or two of the party to inspect it, each paying his proportional share of the expenses. When on the spot, if the land they went to see was not suitable, they could see other tracts of which they would, probably, get information in Rosario, from the society lately formed to promote immigration, of which Mr. Perkins is a member.

Land agents on their part should not forget that there are fifty small capitalists able to purchase and stock a small tract, against one able, and if able not willing, to purchase a large estancia; consequently the land agent with the object of keeping number one in view, should afford every facility possible to purchasers of small farms.

Heroic conduct of an Irish woman Four men frightened awfully out of their wits.

Moreno, July 30, 1864. Moreno, July 30, 1861.

On last Wednesday 27th inst. four men, two British subjects and two Porteñas, went to a sheep puesto in this neighbourhood to ask for a 'parting:' they met with an Irishwoman, the only person in charge of the sheep on that day, she refused to shut the sheep for them in the absence of both her husband and the owner of the sheep—the men insisted (as she says) on shutting the sheep anyhon, whether she will or no. High words ensued between the men and the women, mixing English and and the women, mixing English and Spanish, when in the midst of this altercation she hears the word in Spauish which is so common in the mouths of gauchos; the moment she thought her honor hurt, in she goes and out she rushes gun (empty as she says) in hand, threatening destruction to the men's lives; the poor fellows were so fright-ened, that they ran for the alcalde, one of them leaving a hoot behind (as they say) and hiding himself behind on old mancaron for shelter from the shots,

The accounts from the Shenandoah the Federal General Hunter has gained a considerable success over the Confoderates, under General Jones, in the neighborhood of Staunton, but they differ as to the extent of the success. ever, when the victory can produce any decisive result.

From Kentucky the accounts fully confirm the rumours of the Confederate General Morgan's forces in that State. He appears to hold most of the principal towns, has broken up all the railways, and even threatened Cincinnati, on the Ohio: The chief importance of these movements is in the effect which they have of endangering the communications of General Sherman with the Northern States.

We learn that the Confederates have the communication of the Mississipni.

We learn that the Confederates have got the command of the Mississippi between Vicksburg and Memphis by means of powerful batteries erected at Greensville, on the Mississippi bank of the river, and at Columbia, nearly opposite, on the Arkansas side. These batteries are said to have destroyed or cantured four gunbasts and seven captured four gunboats and seven transports. A fleet of gunboats had been sent to dislodge them, but up to the last accounts the Confederates still held their ground, and cut off all communication between the Fedeval forces on the upper part of the river and those on the lower. The Confede-rates had collected all their forces for a great battle in defence of Atlanta. Their position was at Marietta, in front of the river Chattahcochee, the principal river of that district. General Johnston's headquarters are at Marietta General Hood commanding the centre, General Hardee the right, and General General Hardee the right, and General Polk the left. General Sherman was in the neighborhood of Ackworth, four or five miles distant from Johnston's headquarters.

The only thing that will gain stand a moment before that that she is willing to agree to for a period of two mouths, retaining posses-sic of the territories of the King of Denmark during that period.

It is somewhat curious, however, while we are thus told what Prussia will do, not a word is said of what Austria will do. Yet this is quite as important, and we can only hope that this idence is a need of a more reason. this silence is a proof of a more reasonable temper on the part of Austria. That we shall know to-day, when the substruce of the proceedings of the Conference must be made public.
