The political weather-cock.

The political weather-cock...

Every body admits that this is a veriable climate and the politics of the day seem to be about as constant as the weather. Great things were expected from Cordova, but the cloud that was gathering in that direction has turned out mere smoke. Governor Peña one of the bulwarks of the Liberal party, the Nicotaly climate the Nicotaly. has, according to the "Nacional", either shewn the white feather or done worse; and Derqui has everything his own way. The Province of Cordoba has been do clared in a state of siego for 3o days, and notwithstanding the indignation of Peña's former friends, the latter has niniously kissed the dust, and suffered the President to take away 100 men and two pieces of artillery to his mpment at Tablada. We may easily imagine that without Peña or Bousily imagine that without Peña or Bouquet, the Liberal; party can offer but a feeble resistance, and Derqui, as private letters state, will at once disarm the citizens and banish the chief opposers cruzens and banish the chief opposers of his policy. A despatch from Fran-cia states the danger of an invasion from the Arroyo del Medio and communica-tes the following billet dour to Peña.

The President of the Republic Considering that the previnces of nta Fé and Cordoba are threatened n, aud that the latter is in a state of rebellion, decrees :

That the Province of Cordoba be from June 14th and that the President e the command in said province until order shall have been established-DERQUI.

J. M. FRANCIA.

Meanwhile we hear very little of the crusaders of Santiago, Tucuman and Salta, and after the example of Cordoba we have our misgivings that Bue-nos Aires must stand by the old proverb "if you want a thing done, do it yourself" and the brunt of the contest with the caudillage must be borne by Portenos, Certainly if Pena held out hopes of co-operation, he has deceived his friends; we are inclined to think he deceived himself too. If Cordoba had remained firm, the issue with Urquiza must have been doubtful; but this turn in the provincial scales will no doubt give the Captain General fresh courage; and it will require all the energies and enthusiasm of our Natio-nal Guard to make head against the hero of Cepeda and the butcher of Po-

Is war at hand?

Some people seem to think that we are not going to war till Spring, others say, not even then; but to our mind events are rapidly driving both parties to a collision; and another week may see the first shot. In any case the month of July, with its anniversary of independence, will infallibly witness a encontre that must cast a shade over raditional glories, and shew mankind that horoes have filed for a sacred 'idea" and their children know not how to profit of it. If the Spanish yoke was bad, civil war is worse, and in fact, except the importation of for-eigners, we should like to ask what are the tangible benefits of independence in South America | Looking at Buenos Ayres we find the architecture of the city improved, but, most of the new edifices are the work of foreigners. If we cross the campagna, there is a mil-lion of fine sheep, but the shepherds are gringos. If we enquire into any development, commercial, civil, educa-tional or near section. tional or rural, most assuredly the fo tional or rural, most assuredly the io-reign element is therein perceptible. These are trite facts, and we do not repeat them in a foolish exultation or spirit of nationality. But while all chuldren and settlers. What is the mo-ral of such a history, the conclusion deducible from such premises? We fancy that it requires neither a meta-physical disquisition, nor syllogistic argumentation to prove that it is our bounden duty to profess ourselves one bounden duty to profess ourselves one and all politically quakers, "who_abhor the shedding of blood under any pre-text. "Peace at any cost" is not always a safe motto, and we nowise gadvecate the principles of Louis Philippe and O' Connell who said that, "all the liberty of the world is not worth a drop of human blood"; still in the present case we are so far from siding with either of the combatants by clapping him on the back, that we hereby protest to man-kind our innocence of the quarel, and deplore its origin, sequel and consequences whatever they may be.

SOUTH AMERICA:

Argentine Confederation. LATEST NEWS.

A large force is concentrating in Ro sario. Derquiremains with 800 men near Cordoba. The steamers "Pam-pero", "Menay" and "Salto", said to be purchased in $13,000 doublooms, are arming; and Urquiza (says the "Nacio-nal") is already on horseback, having received extraordinary powers, from the Vice-President, as to the equipment of the Argentine army. By decree da-ted June 11th, he is authorized to raise the levies of Entre-Rios, Corrientes and other provinces as he may deem fit, and dispose of the army for the restoration of peace. A courier bearing se-cret despatches arrived in Paraná a midnight (17th) and conferred with Pedernera, but all efforts to guess his mis-sion have failed. The soldier-priest Father Marin came to Buenos Aires on Saturday last and was immediately ar rested, but being released, returned again to Parana. The reply of the Minister of Finance, to Mitre's refusal of the monthly subsidy, has called forth a declaration from this government that the million and a half was only a temporary arrangement to be subsequently discussed in Congress, and that the re-jection of the Deputies prevented the ratification or change of such tribute and therefore relieved Buenos Ayres of an oppressive impost.

In this city there have been some movements of troops: the Italian legion is in town, and serenaded (?) the Governor yesterday morning. Report says diate ofders, and although the Nac accuses Mitre of inactivity, we believe the charge ill-founded. The sinews of war are provided, in a project or bill for 50 millions which the government de-mands on the guarantee of an increase in native export duties by 2½ p8: adding (par parenthese) that the Bank has lost (or rather gained) since its first emission of paper-money 12 millions$ mic by the usual wear and tear, which sum may naturally be placed to the credit of the Bank. Moreover from successful returns of interest, a considerable amortization is intended and of the '59 emissions over 13 millions have been alteady amortized. Money has great influence in war as well as in peace, and we read in Grecian history peace, and we read in Grecian mistory that the oracle told Philip "he should win if he fought with silver spears."

CONCERT FOR THE VICTIMS OF MENDOZA.

To the Editor of the Weekly Standard,

Sir: This philanthropic, benevolent per formance came off, as you are aware, on the 18th June in the Colon Theatre on the 18th June in the Colon Theatre it was initiated by the Club del Plata and carried out by the most distinguished ladies and gentlemen of our city. This magnificent spectacle was applauded by 2000 persons of all nations, but, strange to say, has escaped the notice of our local press, excepting a few lines in the "Nacional." This is the more remarkable, as certain journals have warmly espoused for some time the cause of the public coach-drivers. It is said that the political color of the Club del Plata was deemed objectiona-ble and for this reason their humane enterprise was slipped over.

What littleness! let us for Gods' sake forget the hue of the Club, and think of the fair portenas who have so creditably exerted themselves in a pious object. Certainly we all owce aword of thanks to the Schoritas Sanchez, Garay, Kier, Gutierrez, Cambaceres, Borriseli, Maestro Marotta, the composer of Gis-monda, who lent his professional skill on the occasion. Nor do I think a mero newspaper article fit recompense for the fair artistes; they merit well of their country and of humanity and the neglect of courtesy in our press is little worthy. I an truly sorry that the concert of the 18th cain call for no more return than a few lines communicated to the columns of the "Weekly Standard"; but, thank you Mr. Editor for the satis-

but, thank you Mr. Editor for the satis faction you permit me to make for the silence and bad taste of our native press on a matter of such purely hunane tendencies. A PORTESO.

San Antonio de Areco, June 8, 1861. To the Editor of the Weekly Standard, Dear Sir:

Perceiving that my last found room in your valuable journal, I beg to include a few lines.
We are still without rain although in

We are still without rain although in these last few days there was every ap-pearance, and the heavy frosts have left us; still the camps are dry and bare and the sheep beginning to look for water, some few farmers about here are actually watering their flocks, but as yet it is not a general thing, since the year it short a general thing, since there is a general persuasion, that to water sheep at this season will not serve them, how far correct this idea may be I am at a loss to say, and would like to have the experience of some of like to have the experience or some or your readers on this subject. The most of the flocks about here continue in prime condition and we are all on the look-out for the buyers of Capons. In the neighbouring partido of Giles, I am informed an Irishma sold a troop of Capons at 508, which is about the fair value, taking into con sideration the present price of woo

There has been also a sale of a poin of sheep made about here the day, the sheep were not to say the best, they sold for 478 al corte, for cash. The prices of all sort of provisions have risen terribly in these little town so it is to be hoped that as flour and biscuits go up, wool and sheep will not go down.

FOTEM:

American War.

At Washington the administration were making active preparations for the defence of the capital. The six steam-sloops of war authorised by the last Congress were to be put under contract without delay. A deparately of without delay. A despatch of the 14th says:-

The answer of the President to the Virginian Commissioners indicates the course of the Lincoln government There is no longer any doubt that the nost active war measures will at onc be taken to repossess all the govern ment property at the south. Congress will be at once convened, men and sup-plies asked for, and the whole power of the government will be exerted to its utmost capacity to maintain its na-tionality and integrity. No means will be left untried to inaugurate a war policy of the most gigantic proportion In spite of the Sabbath, thick crowds gathered to-day at the street corners, and in front of the several hotels, and and in front of the several hotels, and kept up a continued and carcited discussion of the events in Charleston harbour. About noon it became generally known that the President had a proclamation ready for promulgation, calling a special session of congress, and making, a requisition upon the several States for 75,000 men. The feeling of oppressedness which the Unonists laboured under since Friday disappeared at once. Faces lighted up, and loud expressions of gratification were heard in every direct. gratification were heard in every direc-tion. The Attorney-General has deci-ded that the President has authority, ranger under existing circumstances, to call upon the States for treops without the special authority of Congress. A special authority of Congress may be called for other purposes, nevertheless. The announcement was received as an earnest of the intention of the administration to prosecute the Awar opened by the South Carolina [Secessionists with the utmost vigour, and never stop/until the revolution was flairly frushedfour, and Agreed as June with the Viveliest satisfaction by men of all parties. That the North will be an unit in the support of whatever measures the government the North will be an unit in the support of whatever, measures the government will now take for the re-establishment and maintenance of its authority in the Seceded States is plainly shown in the unanimity of sentiment prevailing of this question among the Democratic, Republican and American leaders now here. A proclamation acelaring Washington underlunarial law is expected to be issued to morrow. The requisitions upon the governors of the several towards will be issued and sent forward to-morrow. The quots of troops asked to-morrow. States will be issued and sent forward to-morrow. The quota of troops asked for from Penn sylvania is about 19,000, New York the same number, and Massachusetts about 2,000, Maryland 3000, and the offer States in proportion. The government will accept more than the number asked for from each State, if offered. There is no doubly, from the present indications, that most of the States will tender more troops than the government wan. of the States will tenuer more two-than the government want.

The War department has been bu-sy to-day in the preparation of the de-details to be committated to the State authorities. Efforts are still making to concentrate a formidable military force in and around Washington, to be prepared for all emergencies. An addi-tional number of Federal troops arrived to-day by special train. The roads and avenues leading to Washington are clo-sely watched. Arrangements have been made to prom pily concentrate the milltary forces at any threatened point. 10,-000 volunteers fron Pennsylvania and New York will be concentrate here in the course of the present week 1,600 men are now under arms, guarding the pu-blic buildings and overy approach to the capital. Governor Dennison, from Ohio, telegraphed las might, offering 10,000 men to the President for immediate service. Senator Sherman, and a number of other prominent, Northern men returned home this afternoon to assist in the organisation of the militia in their several States. Governor Curtin, of Pennsylvania, was engaged alf day with Secretary Cameron making arrangements for the immediate transfer of several Pennslyvania regiments to the capital. Two officiers of the New York city militia to-day announced to the President the readiness of their rethe President the readiness of their re-giments to respond to his call. Captain Newton, of Boston, acting commander of the 24 battallion Massachusetts Vo-lunteer Militia, a very efficient corps, tendered his services and his battalion tendered his services and his battation to the President yesterday. General Lane, the newly-elected Kansas Senator, speaks of resigning and returning to Kansas to raise a regiment. General Robinson, one of the oldest citizens of Pittsburgh, came here yesterday, ready to volunteer. The President had repea-ted and protracted consultations with ted und protracted consultations with the members of the cabinet to day. He is calm and composed, but determined to put down southern revolution at any cost. The military guard at the geneto put down southern revolution at any cost. The military guard at the general public departments was largely increased last night. The war feeling is up among the Union men of the country now here, and the city is full of northern, western, and milded states people. A large number of military men have left for different parts of the north for the purpose of raising regiments. Col. Ellsworth goes immediately to Illings for that nurroses. As tely to Illinois for that purpose. Arrangements will be immediately made nstruction of the seven steam ops of war provided for at the last ion of Congress. The government is esion of Congress. The government in prepathe law. Three cavalry companies from Texas and Sherman, slight battery of artillery are expected here to-morrow. Additional volunteer companies will be itional volunteer companies will be stered to-morrow. Five officers of navy yesterday tendered to the artment their resignations, which e refused. Theis names will, pro-ly, be struck from the list as dismiased, has in the recent cases of severa officers of the carmy under similar cir

The National Volunteers last night passed a resolution severely denouncing the military operations of the government, and expressing sympathy with the Secessionists. At all events they are considered necessary, no one knowing what turus events may take during the prevalent excitement. Information, from what are deemed reliable sources, was received last night to the effect that the Secessionists of Delawar, who-se headquarters are reported to be in Virgiuis, were about to make a midden attack upon Fort Delawa-re, opposite Delaware city, for wh-ich they were preparing last month. received last night to the effect that ich they were preparing last month, inmediate steps were taken by the Secretary of War to prevent the consummation of the plot. The Virginia Commissiones returned to Richmond to-day. They were cautious in expr inions relative to the Pre t's reply. Senator Douglas called on the President to-night. He had an nteresting conversation on the present condition of the country. The subs-ance of it was, on the part of Mr. Doulas, that while he was unal erably oppolitical issues, he was prepared to sus is in the President in the exercise of all his constitutional functions to preserve the Union, maintain the government, and defend the Federal capital. A firm licy and prompt action were neces-y. The capital of our country was in danger, and must be protected at all bazards, at any expense of men and hazards, at any expense of men and oney. He spoke of the present and the future, without reference to the wed past. The interview of Judge Douglas with the President was not only exceedingly gratifying to both, but is the subject of much rejoicing by the friends of Mr. Douglas here. Colonel Ellsworth intends to raise a regiment of picked men in Illinois, who will be armed with an improved rifle and sabre, and uniformed and equipped for the Zouave drill. Every company will have one or more commissioned and non-com issioned officers thoroughly competer to teach the Zouave drill, and the re-giment will be hurried through with all possible despatch. ast of the national Patron of l, as well as those of the other nglish saints, are, of course, observed th so lemnity at the English College, many devote prayers are offered tig impatient of French influence and though commerce may be restored to the religious welfare of our country, duplicity, and it is very much doubted the religious welfare of our country, whether the forced "reconciliation" of yet it is a clear case that an enormous tements here with respect to the truth of the report of the reception into the Catholic Church of the late Duchess of Kent. A private letter, which mentions many little confirmatory circumstances, states that the priest of Claremont (who is said to have received the submission of her late Royal Highness) when questioned on the subject, aimply replies that he is "not at liberty either to affirm or deny" the truth of ply reputes that he is "not at liberty either to affirm or deny" the truth of the report, and that there is an air of mystery about the whole affair which certainly seems to confirm it. There is no doubt that the Duchess had, for several years past, manifested decided Catholic tendencies, which were said Cathol at one time to be participated in by more exalted lady, but not by her Ro-yal Consort, who is reported to be far from pleased at what took place at Froguere. I believe it is the case that the report alluded to has not been con tradicted in any of the English papers and that it was an Anglican journal (the Union) which first gave it publicity.

The rumonr to which I alluded a few days ago, respecting the English Car-dinal, seems less worthy of reliance than I then supposed, and it is at all events premature, even if it have an ele ment of truth. But I believe there is no doubt that the name of his Eminen ce has been frequently mentioned in the course of the recent discussions, and that many persons of eminent position are of opinion that some such arrange ment as that described would be bene-ficial at the present moment. On the other hand, I very much doubt whe ther the health and energies of the Emi nent Cardinal are in a state to admit o his assuming so much additional anxiety and responsability. The impression at the present moment seems to be that the negociations for the eva cuation of Rome have failed, and that our Gallican protectors are likely to remain with us through the summer, if not longer. There was a meeting of Cardinals at the Propagandr yesterday, and Cardinal Barberini and Azesedo bave just been appointed to new ventual offices. Cardinal Alfieri has expelled or sus-pended several misguided students of the Roman University, who had taken part in revolutionary manifestations. There was a similar disedifying scene at the Academy of St. Luke (a government establishment for the promotion and cultivation of artistic studies) a week ago, when some of these boys indulged in the fashionable formality and mock in the fashionable formanty solutions solutionity of a "protest," a document that would be well suited to the page: of Punch. They were, hower, not allo-to resume their studies until they had signed a paper repudiating revolutiona-ry sentiments. Youths are peculiarly dis-posed to insubordination, and are easily captivated by such language as is un-fortunately too common in this country; and it is not, therefore, surprising, that a rebellious spirit should occasionally have manifested itself in some of the Roman seminarie

There is a report that the Royal Fa-mily of Naples wil shortly leave for Swit-zerland; but I believe it is much more probable that their Majesties will confor some time longer, perhaps until an important change occurs in the posi-tion of affairs.

I see that the Turin telegrams repeat continually that "tranquillity has be restored" at Naples. Nothing could be more opposed to the truth; and it is impossible to exaggerate the misery and insubordination which prevails in that unfortunate city and kingdom. The revolutionists are evidently get-saints, and the "dowry of Mary." By the diplomatist and the brigand will amount of public and private distress the way, there are most confident state to found to posses much permanence tements here with respect to the truth of reality. Cavour is, no doubt, in the official houses in connexion with the confidence of the Tuileries, and his lands. guage implies it; but Garibaldi, like can "honest rogue," cordially bates the lying Louis of Paris, and is determined not to be made an instru ment in his hands. It seems impossi-ble, therefore, but that another outbreak should soon take place, and it is of course; a consolation to honest people when the rogues are at logger heads amongst themselves.

Dr. Cahill on the American War.

Greenpoint, Tuesday, April 16,

FELLOW-COUNTRYMEN.—The pres letter will be short. You will see the accounts describing the bombardment of one of the forts belonging to the Fe-deral Government. This fort was defended by only about one company of artillerists and some few labourers. It surrendered after some hours' fighting; and it is now held bythe Secessionists The capture of this fortress is of small consequence to the victors; and is of little loss to the Government. But the omplexion it gives to the quarrel; and complexion it gives to the quarrel; and the decision it adds to .the separation, can only, perhaps, be told by a future historian of this Republic. The chal-lenge has been, by this fact, given by the Secessionists, and the first bullet has been discharged at what they call the enemy; and now the hostile standards have be n raised on both sides Tens of thousnods of armed men are at this moment marching to the deadly struggle, and will, no doubt, stand t their arms, as their brave fathers did when the word of command will cry out the fatal advance.

And what a painful spectacle to see brothers all" rushing to the fight with glittering or crimsoned steel. All mer of all parties lament this national disaster : and all would fain close the breach or heal the wounds; but an im pulse like mystery seems to push me forward, crying, as it were, in nationa tears, while they rush on in national vengeance: and bemoaning their sadden-ing duties to the State, while they load the unerring American rifle. Because however, it is a family dispute, al strangers say it will be soon settled; while the nations hope; more favoura-ble results from the self-interest than from the natural affection of the parties concerned. From the proverbial saga city and wisdom of the American cha racter, many persons cannot be made to believe that this knowing commercial people will spill each others blood in a hurried, hostile conflict. This class therefore, believe that when tens of thousands on each side meet in battle line, and when, as it were, the nationa honour and the national courage will have been satisfied with this small display of power, decision, and patriotism, the sober calculation of the national character will suddenly rise up between the bristled ranks, will, by degrees, cool this embattled fervour, and slowly lead to a final settlement of the inflamed dispute. Self-interest, therefore, they say, will be more successful in this car and under these circumstances, than steel-clad ships and rifled canno

The capture of Fort Sumter has had one remarkable effect:one remarkable effect:—namely, it de-fines the parties in the quarrel. Here-tofore men were friendly to both sides, but now every man must declare for one or the other party; and perhaps this decision may have the prospect or result of shortening and concluding the unhappy difference.

But although the national temper may be cooled within the year; and al-amount of public and private distress must be felt in the interim. The com-mercial houses in connexion with the South must fall; as the South will pay no more bills of the North. Of course all the labour and mechanical trade that hung on these establishments must be beggared in the same proportion and tens of thousands of hands, both men and women, must be thrown of employment. Besides these obvious clear results, here stated, there is a new clear results, here stated, there is a new terror even worse than all these taken together. It is the idea called a panie, will This abstract idea, called a panie, will make men lock up their cash, their skill, their talents, and working tools, during the panic.

en, under the influence of this awful idea, are afraid to risk a cent in any speculation till the times are settled specialition till the times are settled.
As at the approach of a black cloud in this country, men expect lightning, and thunder, and a deluge of rain, before the sky is cleared; so when a black panic appears here in the moral firmament, no one will believe that this menacing darkness will pass away, and the commercial regions be cleared till some awful flashes and thunders, and cataracts will crush and sweep away all the crumbling commercialities of the city! Hence these wiseacres hold the cash: and inflict a greater calamity on public enterprise than the withering freezing, crushing grim realities of the practical panic itself.

Now, what is the conclusion at which I am driving, in these belligerent commercial, mechanical descriptives of The conclusion is to beg that your poor victims of English misrule will stay at home; and say your Irish beautiful prayers till this dispute will be finally adjusted. I command you, therefore, not to come here; not to go to Canada; nor to go to the earthly Purgatory, called Australia: in fact, to go no where; but to remain at home till matters are arranged here, and the times will have been definitively improved in this country. You know I have always told you never to come here if you could live at home.d But that if you were unhoused by the cruel landlord: if you were per-secuted by the Biblical fiends: if you dreaded the murderous proselitizing poorhouse : if you trembled at the hard fate of wearing the English red coat : if you could not bear to seebullecks and turnips take possession of your father,s old holding: then sucear to be sober, re-main single for a time, and come here to this free land and people, to be well fed, well clothed, and happy. No; I cannot say happy. I have, perhaps, never met one Irishman happy here, or even contented. No, they are wealthy independent, respected ; but never плг

PY, never CONTEMED. There is something in the heart of an Irishman by which he can never be happy but at home on the green sod of Irclaud. It is the irrepressible feeling planted in our hearts by the Irish painting gallery within. And if the hand of Nature: this feeling is inseparable from our Irish blood: it is the may rest on the column of Vendone light of the diamond : it is our Spartan instinct : it is the fidelity of Noah's dove; to perish or return, if we can, to ou ncient home : and to console poor old nother Ireland amidst an emaciating bigotry, a cruel insulting class legisla tion, unsurpassed in any country in Europe. Yes, I have seen here tens of thousands independent, wealthy: but I or contented as they would be with half these means in Irahand

CHAPTER IV.-PARIS.

The best view of Paris is probably om the cupola of the Pantheon, but the tower of Notre Dame also gives in a glance a correct idea of the great city. Looking Southward we see the high sloping roofs of the Tuileries mingling in the magnificent back-ground of the Champs Elysees at whose extremity the gorgeous Arc de Triomphe in the picture. And nearer is the Seine with its splendid quaysand bridges, now crowded with a gay and fashionable throng. Yonder stands the Hotel do and the column of July rears its Ville; and the column of July rears its winged statue high above the site of the Bastilla. There is the church of the Invalides enclosing the remains of the greatest man that the world has ever produced. Close to the belfries of Saint Sulpice, are distinguished the Palace of Luxembourg and its orna-mental gardens. Following the line of of Sa quays we discern the Louvre whose facade a quarter of a mile long is almost as rich, as the unrivalled museum and which preserves in brazen pictures the glories of France won by Napoleon, whose statue is the genins of the place and looks proudly to the Champ do. Mars where his veterans so often passed in review before him. Not far off is the Madeleine, one of the richest churches in Europe, glittering in gold and surrounded with chef d'œuvre's of sculpture. Nearer still is the Bourse with its light colonnade and handsome square: and the Palais Royal once the abode of royalty, but now an arcade of jewellers and pastry-cooks. Far in the distance may be perceived the ceme-tery of Pere La Chaise, equally cele-brated for its illustrious dead and the cautiful gardens and terraces that in tersperse its superb monuments. The of the Seine, we faney the turrets of St. Cloud riseabove the wooded slopes in which the palace is so charmingly situated. A thousand noble structures, civil, classicand religious, demand our attention on every side, till weare almost satisted with the trasteful coup d'oeil and descend from our watch-tower to explore the charms of this enchanting place, expecting to find our sentiments of Paris improve at every step, and convince us that it is indeed a city of delights, where pleasure has fixed her abode, and art, skill, taste, and fashion are for ever imperishably enthroned. of the Seine, we fancy the turrets of St.
